LOCAL GREEK CITIZENS JOIN IN EFFORT TO SAVE LIFE OF FELLOW COUNTRYMAN

Thousands of Lowell Greek-speaking citizens are attaching their names to a widely-circulated petition that is being prepared to stay the execution of Paul Pappas, who is scheduled to pay the life penalty for the alleged murder of Mrs. Alice Arsenault in Boston on Christmas Eve, 1919.

The campaign to save Pappas from the death chair six weeks from today, is spreading all over New England. Hundreds of Greek-speaking men and women are distributing the petitions that are to be sent to Governor Chandler Cox, demanding a stay of execution. Lowell has been canvassed diligently since last Sunday, and yesterday more than 150 more names of local Greek citizens were secured by the petition-carriers. Centerville was visited this morning and every man of petition-carriers. Centerville was visited by the name-solicitors, attached their signatures to the papers.

The sympathy that is felt for Pappas appears to be widespread. Thousands of dollars have been subscribed by Greek-speaking citizens in Massachusetts and New Hampshire and Rhode Island, in the effort to save the life of the Boston man, who had friends in

Lowell and many other Greek-speaking new England communities.

Numerous Lowell Greeks today signed the papers, not knowing exactly what features were attached to the paper or their object, yet believing that the campaign was one worth supporting, because of the fact that so many people, including many American-born citizens, have assisted in saving the present campaign to have Pappas saved from the electric chair and given a new trial.

A new trial is what the petition-carriers desire, they say. Certain new evidence is alleged to be on file that will be presented in due time in the effort to save Pappas from death with the hoped-for possibility of his not only securing a new trial but ultimate release from custody.

In Lynn a committee representing 500 Greek-speaking citizens called in Mayor McPherson and asked his co-operation in the move to get a stay of sentence for their countryman. McPherson pledged his support.

Two mass meetings were held last evening in Peabody and in Lynn to protest Pappas' execution.

PENALTY FOR THIRST AFTER KNOWLEDGE

Returning from his night's work in a local mill about six o'clock this morning, Thomas Guillote, while passing the store of James Stamas, decided that a little reading before breakfast might prove helpful and appetizing. Consequently he helped himself to three newspapers from the stand and calmly proceeded on his way until he was apprehended by Officer Nickles and taken to the police station on a charge of larceny.

In the district court this morning, Guillote pleaded guilty and the case was continued until March 19 pending an investigation of defendant's home conditions. The complainant, Stamas, told the court he had been missing papers regularly of late and that while the offence was not a serious one, it was aggravating and he wished it stopped. Asked why he took the papers, Guillote replied that he was saving coupons for a prize.

SIX WOMEN WERE CREMATED

Burned to Death in Their Beds—Seventh Killed in Leap From Building

Stable Man Perished in Effort to Rescue Woman—Workman Killed by Explosion

ANGELICA, N. Y., March 15.—Seven women and two men perished when the Allegany county almshouse on 10th avenue of this village burned early today.

Six of the women were cremated in their beds and the seventh was killed when she leaped from the upper window of the blazing building.

Charles Sanborn, head stableman, perished in an effort to rescue woman inmates. A workman was killed by an explosion which preceded the fire.

In the basement of the two-story wooden structure 24 women patients were quartered. The fire spread to the administration building.

The building where the women were quartered was 250 feet long and joined a concrete structure where the 29 men inmates were quartered.

Sanborn is credited with unusual bravery. He made his way into the blazing structure three times and each time carried out one of the women. On his fourth trip back into the building, the floors caved in and he was burned to death.

$4,128,085 FOR U. S.

First Payment by British Government Under Debt
Refunding Agreement

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The first payment by the British government under the recently negotiated debt refunding agreement will be made today at the New York Federal Reserve bank.

Although the formal agreement has not yet actually been signed, the London government made known its desire to make at once the $4,128,085 payment necessary to reduce the debt to an even $4,500,000,000, the figure upon which the 62 year funding plan was calculated.

Three firemen were injured by broken glass and sent to the hospital while several more were overcome.

DRIVE AGAINST BOSTON HOTELS AND CAFES

BOSTON, March 15.—Announcement of a concerted drive by the police and the city licensing board against hotels and cafes which have been selling liquor was made today in connection with the suspension for two weeks of the license of a small hotel. It was intimated that about 30 other establishments would be closed up shortly as a result of complaints and in some cases convictions in the lower courts on charges of liquor selling.

According to the police, many places have been opened as hotels with only a few rooms available for guests and little but sandwiches for food. The police have received scores of letters from parents complaining that their boys and girls have played out late at night and have come home drunk. Many of these have given information where the liquor was bought.

ONCE GREW ON HILLS IN ERIN

Shamrocks!
Thousands of the little green emblems, glowing in tiny pots of earth, may be seen in scores of local shop windows today.

Real Irish shamrocks from the hills and glens of the land of Erin.

Large consignments came in due season this year for the New England trade. Last season, as some will remember, thousands of plants, properly crated, were due to arrive the week before St. Patrick's Day, but storms delayed three large ocean-going steamships, and a good many lovers of the 'ould sod who hoped to have real shamrocks from Erin on the seventeenth of March were disappointed.

Today there are enough to go around in Lowell, without a doubt.

LANDLORD HALED INTO COURT ON CHARGE OF FAILURE TO GIVE HEAT TO ONE OF TENANTS

What gives evidence of being one of the most important and interesting cases to attract the attention of the local district court in recent times, was brought to light this morning when Michael M. Quinley was arraigned before Judge Enright on a complaint charging him with failure to provide proper heat in a tenement owned by him at 43 Nesmith street and at present occupied by the family of Henry J. Root. To allow for further investigation, the case was continued until next Thursday, March 22.

The complainant, Mr. Root, charges "that on Aug. 1, 1922, and divers other days and times in Lowell, the defendant did wilfully and intentionally fail to furnish heat when said heat was necessary to the proper and customary use of that part of a building occupied by Henry J. Root in certain premises known as No. 43 Nesmith street, in violation of the implied terms of a certain contract entered into between Michael M. Quinley, as lessor of the premises, and Henry J. Root as tenant on the first day of last August."

This is the first case of this nature to confront the district court in this city, and comes under the law stating that landlords are obliged to provide proper heat, light and comfort for their tenants. In view of the marked scarcity of coal this past winter several similar cases have attracted considerable attention in Boston courts where landlords have been forced to employ drastic measures to put a stop to the procedure.

Writer Says Parley to Be Begun When Berlin is Sure of Attention

LONDON, March 15 (by the Associated Press).—The information printed by the diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph to the effect that Germany has up her sleeve a peace plan that includes guarantees to France as well as international supervision of her finances, attracted considerable attention here today.

The article, based on advices, which the newspaper says are thoroughly reliable, asserts that Germany is not prepared to bring the plan into the light until she is assured that it will receive more attention than that proposals she had ready for the London and Paris premiers' conferences.

Unofficial overtures were recently made to the British cabinet by German officials, and the correspondent continues, as to whether Great Britain would enter the opening wedge in peace negotiations by suggesting openly a definite German offer would be considered in London. These advances, the article asserts, did not draw out the British authorities, and consequently.

INSIGNIA CHOSEN FOR 11TH ARMY CORPS

An interesting fact in regard to the 11th Corps, organized Reserve, is the choice of the government for a shoulder insignia for this branch of the army.

When plans for the reserve were being made army officials decided to give the title, 11th Corps, to the unit to be recruited in New England. This alone is an honor for the 11th Corps is an old regular army unit having been organized towards the middle of the 19th century. As the unit was to be of New England, they looked around for a suitable insignia and finally chose one that is a moose skin of the old original New England flag designated as such by Great Britain about 1732. The insignia is shield shaped with a St. George cross in the upper left-hand corner. In the third quarter of the cross was placed a divided globe, but when the colonists took over the flag for their own use against Great Britain, they changed the globe to a pine tree, symbol of New England. The colors are blue, for the shield, red for the cross and green for the pine tree.

This insignia may be worn by any member of the corps and can be obtained from the local office, 201 14th-st. building.

IDEAL PUTTING GREENS

Weedless Lawns Developed by Use of Sulphate of Ammonia and Bent Grass

KINGSTON, R. I., March 14.—The weedless lawns, developed by the Rhode Island state college experiment station, have given the Youngstown, O., Country club putting greens, that are the only of other clubs and the delight of players, according to a letter received by Burt L. Hartwell, director of the Rhode Island experiment station, from John Moreley, green keeper of the club.

The station announced several years ago its success in making a weedless lawn by use of sulphate of ammonia and bent grass.

"Last season we had over 40 golf clubs seeking information relative to our success," Mr. Moreley wrote, adding that he "did not use an ounce of grass seed on 14 of our putting greens in the last six years and this year we do not intend to use any seed on any of our 18 putting greens. These greens do not contain over 2 per cent of clover or chickweed. I have been using pulverized charcoal on our putting greens to check the acidity caused by the continuous use of sulphate of ammonia."

"I believe this to be due to the fact that during July and August we cut from six of our putting greens more grass than the average golf club cuts from their 18 greens. Since using sulphate of ammonia and pulverized charcoal, we have not used any worm droppings, and during the playing season we are not troubled with angle worms."

Mr. Moreley told of an incidental benefit from the sulphate of ammonia method which had not been observed at Rhode Island state college. "For several years a few of our fairways have acted poorly on account of moss," he said. "I was afraid to use iron because I believed it would also kill the grass, so I decided to try sulphate of ammonia. Wherever the moss was heavy, I used more sulphate of ammonia. To my surprise, it all decayed and disappeared."

PRES. LOWELL TOLD TO GO TO "L" FOR BAGGAGE

BOSTON, March 15.—President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard university returned from England on the Cunard Andania yesterday and was confronted by vexatious delay at the pier because longshoremen refused to work during the supper hour, between 5 and 6 p. m. unless granted overtime. This was refused by the steamship officials. The liner therefore was docked by clerks who handled the heavy hawse as best they could.

President Lowell was among the first of the 650 passengers to step ashore and, when he was advised of the situation located one of his trunks and dragged it yeoman fashion well across the shed. A few minutes later (the head of the great college sought out a customs inspector with the question: "Where will I find my baggage?" "What's your name?" asked the inspector.

"Lowell." "Then go to L for your baggage," came the reply.

President Lowell glanced sharply at the inspector who now was advised of the situation. A smile overspread the educator's face as he sauntered over to the section designated by a big black "L."

Much heavy weather was experienced by the Andania on her passage from Liverpool and Queenstown, but President Lowell showed himself an admirable sailor. He was chairman of the concert last Saturday when $15 was raised for the seamen's orphanage fund of Liverpool and his whimsicalities convulsed the audience which gathered in the ship's social hall. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter.

No remedy can cure all ailments of the human body, but an immense number of people suffer from rheumatism, pains and discomforts when their real trouble is lack of iron in the blood. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron your food merely passes through you without doing you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. There is one universally known tonic that has helped thousands because it contains iron like the iron in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood.

LOST MILLION BY STOCK DROP, SAYS BRADY

ALBANY, March 15.—James Cox Brady, son of Anthony N. Brady, financier of New York and Albany, and with his brother, Nicholas F. Brady, executor and trustee of the $75,000,000 Anthony N. Brady estate, admitted at a surrogate's court hearing yesterday that the estate had lost nearly $1,000,000 through its failure to dispose of its stockholdings in the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company when securities began to decline.

Mr. Brady said he sold his own stock during or previous to the decline at an average of $10 a share, but that the Brady estate securities, when finally sold, brought an average of only $11. Some of them, he admitted, were sold for as low as $5 a share.

James Cox Brady and his brother, Nicholas, are named in an action brought by their sisters, Mrs. Luther Tucker, and Mrs. Francis E. Garvin, both of New York, who have objected to the 1921 accounting of the estate. The Central Union Trust Co. of New York also is party to the action.

James Cox Brady was on the stand throughout the day. On conclusion of his examination by Mr. Kressel, the hearing was adjourned until April 8. Mr. Brady has been the only witness to testify thus far.

Mr. Brady testified that he and his brother, Nicholas, were directors of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company from 1916 to 1918. He admitted that as directors they knew of the financial condition of the B.R.T., but, he said, they had no idea that the company was headed for a receivership.

Later, however, Mr. Brady testified that he did realize that B.R.T. stock was taking a decided slump and said that he disposed of 14,339 shares held by himself. These were sold, he said, between December, 1917, and December 31, 1919, and brought $10 a share.

Stock held by the Brady estate, for which he was trustee, Mr. Brady admitted under questioning by Mr. Kressel, was held until after Dec. 31, 1919. His own holdings in the company, the witness said, then amounted to but one-sixth of a share, while the Brady estate owned 11,744 shares. These he explained, finally were sold at an average of from $10 to $11 a share.

Mr. Brady admitted that he knew in 1918 that the B.R.T. would be unable to pay dividends for at least three years, but said he did not begin to sell stock owned by the Brady estate until May 16, 1919, although the company went into the hands of a receiver on Dec. 31, 1918. The first shares sold, he said, brought $22 each.

Rickard declared today, Rickard said he had Firpo under exclusive contract for a year.

"Firpo will box for no one but me for a year," Rickard declared, "and right now I see no prospect of going outside the United States. He probably will meet the winner of the Jess Willard-Floyd Johnson bout in May and, if again successful, perhaps on other opponent before he will be ready to challenge Dempsey."

SMITH REGRETS LOSS OF MISS COMSTOCK

"Radcliffe's necessity is greater than ours," he added, "and Smith can afford to help a weaker sister. We congratulate them in their acquisition of a real Smith-bred head."

ACTIVITY IN FLOATING RUM-MARKET

HIGHLANDS, N. J., March 15.—(By the Associated Press) There was considerable activity today in the floating rum market off Jersey's three mile limit.

Several swift runners put out from Highlands for the liquor carrying fleet which had increased to 15 craft—two steamers 12 two masted schooners and a sailing vessel with three sticks. Two tugs from New York were sighted today, visiting the fleet. It was assumed that they were bringing supplies. In addition, a number of motor boats were seen bobbing around the armada.

Noted among the new arrivals on Rum Row was a former New York yacht, which left the fleet last week and apparently had returned from the Bahamas with a new cargo.

PEERESS STAR OF "IF WINTER COMES"

Viscountess Dunsford, who prefers to be known by her stage name, Peggy Rush, has arrived in this country to appear before American audiences in the stage version of Hutchison's famous novel "If Winter Comes."

RUSSIA TO REHABILITATE HER LOST INDUSTRIES

MOSCOW, March 15.—(By the Associated Press).—Leon Trotsky, the Russian war minister, may assume a new job, that of directing the rehabilitation of Russia's big industries, if plans which are to be presented to the 12th congress of the communist party, meeting in Moscow late in March, are carried out. Trotsky, it is understood, would continue to act as director of the fighting forces of Russia, but will devote most of his time to the heavy task of whipping Russian factories into shape. He already has worked out plans to this end, and will present them to the congress.

Trotsky's ability as an organizer would long ago have been called into play in this particular job had it not been for opposition by some members of the party, who considered that the war minister should enforce military control over the workmen. It is said that in the beginning Trotsky will close down many factories which are poorly equipped or poorly managed, utilizing their machinery to strengthen the mechanical equipment of the better factories which are to be operated with larger forces to bring about a normal output.

In addition to discussing plans for industrial betterment, the party congress is expected to devise means to bring about a better feeling between the "Nepmen," as the businessmen developed by the new economic policy are called, and the actual proletarian. The "Nepmen" have no votes, but their growing prosperity has greatly alarmed some of the more rabid communists, who see in their extension the danger of a restoration of old-time conditions in Russia. Premier Lenin sounded the keynote of the conference policy in a recent statement in which he declared that the basis of the social reconstruction of Russia rests upon the collaboration of the two classes. He has proposed that about 100 of the most honest and best understanding communists be formed into a special department, authorized to inspect the working of all government institutions and industries, with the aim of ironing out any difficulties that develop in the relationships of the two classes. They are to act in collaboration with the central committee of the communist party, forming a body of perhaps 400 men, whose decisions would be virtually final.

"The basis of Russia's social reconstruction rests upon the collaboration of the workmen and peasants on the one hand and the bourgeoisie on the other," Lenin said. The bourgeoisie should now be brought a little leeway. Should serious class differences arise between these two classes, then a clash is unavoidable. But the necessary conditions for such a split do not exist in our structure, and the chief aim of the central committee should be to watch very carefully all conditions out of which a split might develop, and to work to prevent the fate of our republic will depend chiefly upon whether the peasant masses will follow the working classes, or unite with the "Nepmen." The clearer we have this possibility before our eyes, the better the workmen and peasants will understand it, and the better will we be able to avoid a split that would be ruinous to the soviet government."

The party congress will devote also considerable time to projects for the prevention of bribery, and to curtail the red tape which now entangles most government business. Lenin in his address says that, with the exception of the foreign office, virtually all of the government departments are today as they were in the old days, using the same old typical bureaucratic methods.

LOWELL SALESMEN WIN FOR MAINTENANCE OF TEXTILE FRATERNITIES

TRIP TO NEW YORK BOYS' WORK AT "Y"

As a reward for the splendid showing made during the past five months the local salesmen of the National Biscuit Co. will spend the week-end in New York as guests of the company. The men will inspect the vast-out plants of the company there and will also take in the numerous sights in New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City.

The contest was organized by the company five months ago, its large territory being divided into districts. The Lowell district included all cities in New Hampshire and Massachusetts and at the close of the contest Lowell led all other competitors by a large margin. The Lowell men who will make the trip are Eugene Conahan, Henry Bean, Alderice Teller, Frank Laffitt, R. J. Cole, John Craig and Edward O'Malley. They will leave tonight for Boston, whence they will board the midnight train for New York. They will return next Monday. The men will be paid their regular wages while away and all their expenses will be borne by the company.

In conjunction with a state-wide campaign, the 13th annual "boys' day" will be observed by the local Y.M.C.A. next Saturday when various teams of boys will tour the city soliciting subscriptions for the boys' department. Robert Simpson has been chosen chairman of the day with Edward Holden, Ralph Butler and Amos Flemings as his assistants. The acting superintendents will be Olaf Myhr, Peter

Arnold, the administrator of the estate of said deceased, has presented to said Court an application for a distribution of the balance in hand among the next of kin of said deceased.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, said County of Middlesex, on the twenty-eighth day of March, A. D. 1923, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why said distribution should not be made according to said application.

Witness, George P. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this fourth day of March, in the year now thousand nine hundred and twenty-three. F. M. ESTY, Registrar.

Everyone must eat. Anything that holds the food to be put on the plate has to be done three times a day, year in and year out, should be done well. Besides, it's far more pleasurable to eat in company than to eat alone. But to obtain the fullest enjoyment from breakfast, luncheon or dinner, one should be sure of his table manners. Otherwise his relish for food and conversation will suffer. And so will that of others who eat with him.

AT THE TABLE
1. Unfold the napkin only half and lay it across the knees, use it as needed with or without unfolding; at the end of the meal lay it still half-folded on the table to the right of the diner and fork with it.
2. Use spoons to eat grapefruit and fruits served with cream, boiled eggs, pudding, jellies and soup; to stir and taste bouillon, coffee and tea, before sipping.
3. Use knives only for cutting, out.

PAINLESS HEALING

IS NOW A REALITY

Most of us have come to believe, through bitter experience, that a wound must be painful during the process of healing. We think that pain is part of the actual re-knitting of the tissues and that until this is accomplished we must simply "grin and bear it." Such is not the case.

After the discoveries of Pasteur in 1854 scientists became aware that bacteria were almost wholly responsible for painful healing. They realized that if wounds could be thoroughly sterilized not only would the danger of infection disappear but the process of healing would become swift and painless.

Then why have we been forced to bear the ache and throb of healing wounds all these years? The answer is this: Until the discovery of the famous Carrel-Dakin solution during the World War all known antiseptics of any real germicidal power were poisonous, burning compounds. They could not be used in strong enough solution to destroy every vestige of germs that a wound might contain. The result was that infection was sure to follow a break in the skin. Infection is what is commonly called "inflammation" and all wounds unless thoroughly sterilized will become more or less "infamed."

The Carrel-Dakin solution allowed wounds to be thoroughly sterilized for the first time in the history of surgery. The relief that this brought to the millions of wounded seemed like a miracle. Prior to the discovery of the antiseptic the hospitals were nightmarish of horror, owing to the agony produced by suppurating wounds. After its discovery great gaping holes in the flesh were healed without infection of any sort, the soldier lying peacefully in his bed without any distress.

Zonite is a stabilized and concentrated form of the Carrel-Dakin solution. It sterilizes wounds with even more certainty than the Great War antiseptic. The result is astonishing. A cut or torn finger or hand, for example, will heal with amazing rapidity if Zonite is applied to it at once after the injury. In addition to this the wound has no angry appearance whatsoever and there is no pain during the healing process.

Of more importance still is the fact that this painless healing and total lack of "inflammation" insures immunity from blood poisoning and other serious infections. When it is remembered that amputation or death may result from even the smallest wound if it is not thoroughly disinfected, the necessity for keeping the new antiseptic always at hand will be readily understood.—Adv.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN BANKRUPTCY RULES

Brand new corrective measures, tending to offset some established and shop-worn methods that have arisen in bankruptcy proceedings, and a general broadening of the powers of referees in bankruptcy matters in this jurisdiction, have just been promulgated in an order of court issued by Federal Judge Morion, to take effect April 2.

A summary of the new bankruptcy regulations has been received by Attorney Cornelius J. O'Neill, 226 Hildreth building, and Mr. O'Neill explained to The Sun in general terms today the meaning of the important changes that have been made in legal bankruptcy matters, particularly in the modification of the powers of referees in bankruptcy after April 2, giving officials more authority than ever before.

Some of the important features of the new federal order are such that may change the methods of handling countless cases already listed and prevent any possible adjustments of special cases that might be featured by favoritism or "pull" on the part of those involved in settling cases under adjudication.

Attorney O'Neill said today: "The filing of involuntary petitions in bankruptcy, particularly by the method of assigned claims, is treated by the new rules exhaustively, and the filing of involuntary petitions in bankruptcy is subjected to new and better modifications. In the matter of composition offers, the present rule is amended by an additional short amendment.

"Particular stress is laid upon the increased power of referees in bankruptcy, who are not full masters in chancery, in vested with their powers, and with a fixed definite standard of appeal, and per hour, when sitting as special masters, or when engaged in filing reports. Never before have the powers of a referee been so well described and given real authority that must be obeyed.

The new rules, while tending to expedite and facilitate the growing bankruptcy adjustments in Massachusetts, tend also to restrict the powers of anyone outside of the court, and also tend to keep the control of all matters connected with the expenses of disbursements, etc., under the hands of the court or the referee."

Attorney O'Neill has received a copy of a report covering some of the features of the new bankruptcy laws and the powers of referees. Among the important changes in proceedings are the following:

"It shall be the duty of referees to exercise general oversight and control of cases referred to them, and to see that cases are expeditiously dealt with and completed; and to this end referees are to be invested with all the powers of masters in chancery under the equity rules of the United States supreme court, and the rules of this court, in addition to the powers now exercised by them, and to scrutinize carefully all accounts and petitions for compensation from estates in bankruptcy, and on their own motion, to allow only such amounts as seem to be reasonable, for services actually and necessarily performed, and expenses actually and reasonably incurred.

"It shall be the duty of each referee in bankruptcy on or about the first of each calendar month, to report in writing, upon all pending references (within of disputed issues of fact in bankruptcy cases, giving a brief statement of the progress of the proceedings thereon.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND SWAMP-ROOT

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

the expiration of one year after the completion of the composition. Other changes include providing for certain numbers of original copies of every involuntary petition in bankruptcy with the clerk of court, viz., one for the use of the clerk, one for service upon the respondent named therein, and one for the referee. There are other changes also that call for affixing affidavits to claims, especially in filing claims in involuntary bankruptcy proceedings when claims rest upon assignment or transfer from some other person.

Lowell attorneys interviewed today appeared to agree that the revised bankruptcy laws as promulgated by this new federal provision order, are greatly improved and strengthened in every way and assert that the bankruptcy referees, whose authority in the past have been somewhat narrowly confined and who have often been powerless in certain cases where necessity for more research and action was necessary but could not be enforced, will now be armed with authority that ought to have far-reaching and beneficial effects in bankruptcy action solutions for the best interests of all parties concerned.

TALKED ON THE FIRE ALARM SYSTEM

Captain Conway of the Lowell Fire department addressed a gathering of the Civics classes at the high school was exceedingly interesting as the fire alarm system. Captain Conway brought with him an alarm box and explained just what happened in the box and in the central fire station when the box is rung in. He also explained the great cost of every false alarm turned in on one of these boxes. This lecture was exceedingly interesting as the fire alarm has been given so much publicity recently, and it was also educational, as the fire department is one of the phases of city government that is being taught to these classes.

WILLIAM H. HAMILTON, valued employee of the Federal Civil Service Bureau, Washington, says he would not be without Tanlac, even if it cost ten dollars a bottle.

"Tanlac put me on my feet and kept me on the job, and even if it cost ten dollars a bottle I wouldn't be without it," declared Wm. H. Hamilton, 1013 4th st., Washington, D. C., well known special policeman at the Civil Service building.

"Stomach trouble and a run down condition caused me terrible suffering several years. After eating I bloated, with gas all I had to gasp and groan, and pain in my back added to my misery. I couldn't sleep and was so weak and worn out I thought I was about done for."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Adv.

"PORK PIE" HATS AND POKE BONNETS, BACK

LONDON, March 15.—The "pork pie" hats and poke bonnets of the mid-Victorian period will again be worn in London, the trade authorities say.

"The hint that the crinoline and the bustle are to be worn this season has been responsible for the designing of many new hats which are completely different from the styles of last season," said the designer of a leading West End hatter's establishment.

"Women are to wear hats this season such as they were in the mid-Victorian days. Every hat is different. Many have bows on them and others have elaborate old-fashioned ribbon work."

The fashion has not been confined to London, for many of the French shops of Piccadilly are displaying Paris models designed after styles of the same period.

"Peterson's Ointment Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—I want to tell you how much I do love Peterson's Ointment for the good it has done me. I can't see enough praise for the good it has done me and will say a good word in your favor." Very truly yours, Miss Kate Kull, Sisseton, Ill.

"I'd rather get a letter like that," says Peterson of Buffalo, "than have John D. Rockefeller give me a thousand dollars. It does me a lot of good to be able to be of use to my fellow man."

"For years I have been suffering through druggists a large box of PETERSON'S OINTMENT for 30c. The healing power in this ointment is marvelous. Eczema goes in a few days. Old sores heal up like magic; piles that other remedies are unable to even relieve are speedily conquered."

Interested in Peace Plan

quently Germany is reluctant to disclose her hand. The writer declares that the German industrialists are prepared to contribute a material guarantee. He learns that Germany is ready to accept international financial control to an important extent and that she is willing to be a party to an international guarantee of the French frontiers as established by the peace treaty.

GERMANY TO PRODUCE SETTLEMENT PLAN

LONDON, March 15.—(By the Associated Press) Germany is about to make a declaration that she is willing and ready to produce a plan for the final settlement of the reparations question, provided she can rely on the plan involving the attention and consideration of the allied governments, says the Daily Telegraph's diplomatic correspondent, upon whose information the Daily Telegraph in an editorial says the fullest reliance may be placed. According to the correspondent, the plan, which involves a material guarantee by the German industrialists, will not be disclosed until the German government is assured that it will not be brushed aside without serious examination, as happened to Karl Bergmann's proposals in London in December and in Paris, in January.

Unofficial or semi-official envoys from Berlin, says the correspondent, recently caused inquiries to be made of the British cabinet, whether the cabinet would not take the lead by suggesting that a concerted offer from Germany would be welcomed in London, but that the British statesmen were reluctant to commit themselves. This attitude of reserve, says the writer, disappointed not only the German government, but other governments, who had been looking to Great Britain for the lead. The correspondent gathers that Germany is fully prepared to accept far-reaching measures of international control of her finances and to participate in some international guarantee to France and respecting France's treaty frontiers.

According to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Baron von Rosenberg, minister of foreign affairs, intends to speak in the Reichstag, Tuesday, when some of the people expect a pronouncement showing that Germany has a constructive policy on reparations which would lead to a settlement of the Ruhr situation.

SAFETY FIRST CAMPAIGN

Under the auspices of the Massachusetts Safe Roads association a Safety First campaign is to be conducted in this city by a committee named for the purpose by Major Jeyes, the local representative of the association.

We have had many such campaigns in the past, and while it would be difficult to estimate what they accomplished, yet it is reasonable to suppose that they caused a great many people to be more careful in guarding against accidents and this is the main point aimed at for the chief cause of accidents of all kinds is carelessness.

There may be and undoubtedly there are other causes as for example where there is actual danger; but those who are trained in the practice of safety first will steer clear of such conditions and thus escape where others less cautious will be trapped. Street accidents are now most common of all and it is to this class of accidents that the Safety First campaign will have to devote most attention. The ever increasing number of motor vehicles with no diminution of the recklessness of some drivers or of the carelessness of pedestrians who use the highways, would naturally result in a steady increase in the number of accidents of all kinds on the public streets and highways. It is only by Safety First campaigns and the increased caution they inculcate, that the dangers arising from crowded thoroughfares and recklessness can be guarded against and the number of accidents reduced accordingly.

But it is difficult to make a lasting impression upon the public through these campaigns. The people who most need to be reached cannot be induced to attend safety first lectures or to heed what they hear in campaigns of this kind. They are the speed maniacs, the reckless bootleggers, the joy riders, the jay walkers who use the public streets as they might a field or cowpath in the country, and finally the children who use the busy streets as a public playground.

Here is where reform is necessary. Many drivers of motor vehicles fail to realize the fact that they are driving locomotives through our public streets. Great alarm would be felt if a railroad train was seen steaming along a public highway. But the average auto quite frequently rivals the speed of the ordinary train and without running on rails. The train or the electric car keeps to a track and can thus be easily avoided; but the motor vehicles change their course momentarily and there is no telling what way any of them will turn, especially if in charge of an unskilled or reckless driver. What does this Safety First campaign seek to accomplish? In a general way it will endeavor to educate the people that they will guard against accidents on their own account; and if each individual would look out for himself or herself, there would be much fewer accidents, fatal and otherwise. But this is not sufficient. The promoters of safety first must enlist people of all ages and stations in this work which is simply one of life saving. We see life savers at the beach resorts in the summer ready to save people from drowning; but the people who use our public streets are in much greater danger of getting killed by autos than are bathers at any beach of getting drowned. We need life savers along our streets and highways and those who enforce the automobile laws may be so regarded. They will have to direct their attention mainly to:

- (1) The reckless drivers.
- (2) The unskilled drivers.
- (3) The drunken drivers.
- (4) The heedless people who step in the path of fast moving vehicles.
- (5) The children who make a playground of streets on which there is much automobile traffic or electric car lines.
- (6) The people who shoot from behind one vehicle into the path of another moving in the opposite direction.
- (7) The people who walk on the highways and pay no attention to autos coming behind them so that the drivers sometimes have no alternative but to hit them or run into another auto.
- (8) The drivers who attempt to pass vehicles ahead on a curve or rounding a corner.
- (9) The big truck drivers who hog the road, causing autos at night to take the risk of running off the highways.
- (10) The people who in spite of all the regulations to the contrary, still use great glaring lights that blind approaching motorists and make it impossible for them to see ahead.
- (11) The drivers who fail to sound their horns or to slow down to the speed limit of eight miles an hour at street intersections.
- (12) The drivers who get too close to autos speeding ahead and those who fail to give a timely signal of their intention to stop or slow down.

Those who are familiar with the dangers of the streets will realize the necessity of cautioning these various classes so as to induce them to look out for their own safety and that of the public. The public highways are now so crowded with motor vehicles, especially in the summer season, that those who want to avoid danger do not venture upon the highways except in case of urgent necessity.

Deaths from motor accidents in this city have not been quite so numerous as fatalities from like causes in some other cities of equal population. But they are more numerous than they should be and more so than they would be if reasonable care and caution were exercised by all who use the public thoroughfares.

There are various other classes of accidents that must also receive attention. Chief among these are falls of various kinds. It is not generally known what a vast number of people are injured from falling on streets and sidewalks, falling down stairs, falling over balustrades or veranda railings, falling from buildings and from moving vehicles. Before the automobile era the greatest number of accidents resulting in personal injury were due to falls, plain falls. Railroad accidents came next and are still numerous, although the railroads have made great headway in safety first education. On the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, the accidents due to carelessness have been reduced by over 50 per cent. Some other railroads point to a similar record. The accidents due to fire and water are always a source of alarm and they, too, are largely due to carelessness. Every year we have a number of drownings as a result of skating upon thin or treacherous ice; and we have also a number of drownings every summer because boys or men who cannot swim venture beyond their depth or take dangerous chances. It would be a great source of safety if every boy and girl were taught the art of swimming. As for fires, it is still true that too many young children are allowed to play with matches. There is here a danger not only to themselves, but to the community, and one which the parents alone can remove. When a fire starts, there is no telling what damage it will do or how far it will spread. Children are not the only offenders in regard to fire hazards. Many adults strew combustible materials around in cellars and garages where a spark from a furnace or a cigarette stub might start a conflagration. Vast destruction of forests results from the carelessness of hunters in casting away cigar stubs or lighted matches.

All these causes of danger to life and property will come under a general Safety First campaign but in the present movement, we understand its purpose to be the attainment of greater safety on the highways. There is much need for such a campaign. Let the good work proceed.

THE RIGHT POLICY

By the policy of "Let's Sit Down and Reason Together," Mr. William H. O'Brien of the Public Utilities Board of Boston says he has settled a great many difficulties and misunderstandings that might otherwise have resulted in litigation or trouble of a different kind.

If that same principle were applied in the settlement of labor disputes by the railroads and by the textile industries, we should have fewer misunderstandings and very probably few, if any, strikes. It would enable employer and employee to know each other personally and to see each other's viewpoint, something which under the present attitude of mutual aloofness is impossible.

The state maintains a board of arbitration and conciliation, which, however, with its restricted powers can accomplish very little except where both sides to a controversy request its intervention; but it would be much better if every company employing a large number of hands, as well as every large labor organization, had an official whose duty it would be, to promote the policy of "Let's Sit Down and Reason Together." This is but the cordial application of the principle of collective bargaining. It is the only practical method of maintaining industrial peace.

BREAKING THE RING

Judgments of more than a score of government employees and officials of a large Kentucky distillery is likely to result from recent investigation of an alleged gigantic international conspiracy to smuggle back into this country thousands of barrels of rye whiskey exported during the last four years, according to operatives of the intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue bureau. Through ramifications of this band of unlawful whiskey smugglers, Uncle Sam has been defrauded out of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

This appears to be "something big" and shows that the American thirst will go to any length to secure temporary irrigation. If it be found true that many government employees are in collusion with the smugglers, then the quicker the disloyal crews back in the rays of the United States treasury on federal payrolls, are discharged and duly punished for their alleged crookedness an un-Americanism of the traitorous brand, the better our reputation as a republic of law and order will be conserved.

PROSPERITY

The production of pig iron in February was larger than in any February of the past, reports the Iron Age, trade journal. The output was more than during the corresponding month of the great boom of 1919.

Pig iron production has long been accepted as the barometer of general business activity. Months of prosperity seem to be ahead. If there is any real danger, it is over-production, some economists say. But over-production is an impossibility. The breakdown always comes in the system of distribution.

BRITISH MINISTRY WEAK

Apparently the present British ministry is weakening under the strategy of the wily opposition led by Lloyd George, ex-Premier Asquith and the labor elements. With a bare majority of 48 on an important division, the ministry stands on the brow of a precipice, so to speak. The opposition is voicing the popular disapproval of the French policy in the Ruhr; but the British ministry will not risk the League of Nations by having such a controversy referred to it. The Tanner Law ministry will be short lived.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Courtesy is rare in some public utility service circles I could mention, the traveling public is witness to the lack of real service and to add commuters in distress or those who need information in regard to street railway transportation problems and the car departures and connections, give me almost any sturdy bluecoated hand of Lowell's electric cars and you have "good" good food and tasty advice. I know of a traveling man who "covers" numerous Massachusetts cities and towns and uses the street railway lines. He tells me that Lowell's street railwaymen are the most servicable and accommodating fellows to be found anywhere. I agree with him heartily and hold him of little incident of kind-heartedness and a desire to please that I saw last Sunday morning on an inward-bound Christian Hill train. It was about "church time," the sun was shining and the sound of songbirds could be heard all over the city from Beacon street. Down car contained several passengers and was in charge of Motorman 21—last two numbers forgotten. I never saw this motorman before on the Christian Hill line. He must have been a spare. Anyhow, the fact was on the right side of comfortable fashion and jaunty, and the juice-banisher was humming a tune that had a hit to it. At the corner of Beacon and North streets, the motorman made the short, sharp turn smoothly and was about to descend the lower line when he happened into Beacon street, where he happened to glance backward and caught sight of a little lady, not very old, dressed in black and hurrying toward the Beacon-North street corner from a point about ten yards away. This had been a case for some motorman in the old days, but not for this little man. He stopped the car, got out and, with this Sunday morning songster who was trying to keep in time with those church bells ringing the hour, he helped the lady across the street. The lady was smiling and thanked him quickly. The motorman called in the distance and hastened her steps through the deep, snow-filled sidewalks that in some portions of Beacon street are but sidewalks in name only. Passengers wondered and tried to find out what had happened. They saw the motorman's division of journey was slightly longer, but the journey was being made with no ordinary ease. Motorman 21 did a little bit more to make the service perfect. It was the first time I have ever seen it done, for he strode back to the car and did not crowd in the narrow hallway. It belongs in the usual course of operating a carman, connected the pulley that thrust over the rear door. This put on the motorman's part also added the lady, for if he had waited for her at the front door, she would have had to wait a long time. Numerous passengers were saved, you see, and was this

They Usually Do

"Do you think," asked the stocking of the porter, "you can support me in the manner to which I am accustomed?" "Maybe so. But at the worst I can give you a run for your money."

All Spelled

The lecturer was discussing longevity. "Has any one here any information to give regarding his own ancestry and longevity?" "Two of my ancestors," said one man in the crowd, "lived 150 years." "Wonderful!" exclaimed the speaker. "This is indeed a splendid record. Can this statement of yours be vouched for?" "Yubheh," said the man in the crowd. "They were grandfather and my great grandfather. They lived 15 years each. Count it up for yourself."

She Got It

Her hat obscured his view at the theatre, and he leaned forward and asked if it would be possible for her to remove it. A stiffening of the head was her only answer. After a few minutes he repeated his request. Then she turned on him. "There is no demand for my doing so," she said. "I demand it." He rolled his eyes, his overcoat, placed it on his seat and sat on it. Then he put his hat on his head. In a moment there were cries of "Take it off!" and "Take that hat off!" And with a swift movement, the woman removed her hatpins and removed her hat.

Do Lambis Bite?

"I was once telling a story at a tea party and it was not 'going' well," said Simpkins. "The story was about a 'Tommy' in the South African war. He was standing outside his tent one night when he looked up and saw a lamb wandering about. He enthusiastically approached it, and had just advanced his bayonet into the animal when to his horror, he saw his commanding officer coming along. There were severe penalties for 'looting,' and he was pale-stricken until he had a bright idea. 'Now,' he said to the dumb lamb, 'I'll teach you to bite, you little blighter!' I finished just the way a lamb's silence followed. At last a dear old lady smiled encouragingly and observed, 'I never knew before that lambs did bite!'"

Motorman, No. 21—Instructed by anyone to do all this on a sunny Sunday morning or any other time? He was not. He was just the way a lot of other Lowell street railway motormen do it whenever they get an opportunity. Just watch some of 'em sometime, and see!

Charles E. Davis of Acton, who does a real estate and also runs a home garden and state road sales stand near his farm in the summer months, comes over to Lowell rarely nowadays. I ran across him the other day, though, on his "annual" winter visit, and he tells me that real estate men in the country are due to reap a harvest this season. Charles puts it this way:

"The flood of cheap automobiles is doing the trick. It's this way: Economic studies by experts disclose a growing use of the auto by the laboring class and a consequent decrease in their overhead costs of living through homes taken farther out in the country. Intimations of unprecedented suburban developments are seen in the inclination of the man who lives in the city to get out far enough to have a home of his own and a plot of grass for his children." You said it, Charles!

The visit of Hon. William H. O'Brien of Boston, who is chief of the telephone and telegraph division of the state public utilities commission, proved to be an attraction for local telephone and telegraph "chiefs" as well as numerous Rotary club members. Among those who sat in at the Tuesday meeting on Dutton street was Manager C. J. Leachman of the local exchange, who sat right up at the head table opposite Abel Campbell and enjoyed several smokes while listening to the Boston visitor expound the virtues of this and that and the other thing and did not forget to say some very sweet things about the New England Telephone company and its mighty system.

SURVIVOR OF MAINE DISASTER A SPEAKER

The sinking of the battleship Maine with its many details of tragedy that shocked the world and brought on the war between the United States and Spain, was told again by a survivor of that disaster, Frank G. Thompson of Malden, before the members of the combined Men's clubs of the Northern and Middlesex Baptist churches, last evening. The lecture was delivered in the vestry of the Paige street church and was well attended. An excellent supper was served at 6 o'clock by Paul Jarvis, Nathaniel A. Houston and Warren Brown. Afterward, a short business meeting was held. President Rogers and Secretary Clifford, of the Maine Disaster Relief fund, of Boston gave a very interesting exhibition of magical tricks and sleight-of-hand that pleased.

Mr. Thompson's lecture occupied more than an hour and was full of interest, many present never having heard the real story of the Maine disaster before except from casual reading of his- tories and short accounts in magazines. The speaker was assigned to the battleship Maine in 1898 while the battleship was stationed at Key West. When the Maine was sent to Havana, Mr. Thompson said the ship was taken to a certain buoy by a Spanish pilot and was tied up quite near the Spanish battery. He remained on the ship until blown up and many of his mates were sleeping in hammocks on the main decks when the explosion came. He was hit by a piece of iron and rendered unconscious for a time, but was rescued by his plunge into the salt waters as the big battleship collapsed and started to sink. He was badly wounded in certain portions of his body, but was rescued by a small boat and taken to the Spanish ship with other survivors. After several weeks he was able to return to duty on the U.S.S. Albatross, the war with Spain having been declared in the meantime.

Mr. Thompson made a strong appeal for more patriotism and real Americanism.

MISS COMSTOCK HEAD OF RADCLIFFE COLLEGE

CAMBRIDGE, March 15.—The election of Miss Ada Louise Comstock, dean of Smith college, as president of Radcliffe college, was announced yesterday. She will be the first full time president of Radcliffe, succeeding President Lebaron L. Briggs, who for 21 years has been both head of Radcliffe and dean of the Harvard faculty of arts and sciences. Miss Comstock, who was formerly dean of women at University of Minnesota, will assume office in June.

The election of the new president by the Radcliffe Associates, was after unanimous nomination by the committee on choice. This committee was composed of Mrs. S. Burr Walcott, Mrs. Henry Jackson, Miss Sarah M. Dean, John F. Moors of the Harvard Fellows and Professor George H. Chase of Harvard and Radcliffe.

After the resignation of President Briggs last fall, this committee reported in favor of a full time president for Radcliffe because the college had so grown as to require the entire time of both a dean and a president. The committee further felt the relations between Harvard university and Radcliffe college were so firmly established as to no longer require as president a member of the Harvard faculty serving as a link between the two institutions. This latter decision made possible the consideration of women as well as men.

Miss Comstock, besides her position as dean of Smith, has since 1921 been professor of the American Association of University Women. She was born in Bloomsburg, Minn., and after studying for two years at the state university, transferred to Smith college, where she was graduated with the class of 1897. In 1899, she received a master's degree from Columbia university. She then returned to the University of Minnesota to teach, and in 1909, became a professor of English, where for a year of study at the Sorbonne.

As the first dean of women at Minnesota, Miss Comstock, although only 32 years of age, was credited with pioneer work in bringing to the fore the importance of college education for women. In September, 1912, she went to Smith college, which had near and closely had a dean. In that year, Mr. Holyoke conferred on her the honorary degree of Litt. D. The University of Michigan, added an honorary degree of Litt. D. in 1921.

TWO STRAIGHT FOR BROADWAYS

Acres Quintet Made it Two in Row Over Y. M. C. I. in Championship Series

Keyes and O'Connor Star in 22 to 18 Victory—Good Crowd on Hand

The Broadways made it two in a row in their basketball championship series with the Y.M.C.I. by winning last night's game at the Crescent rink by the score of 22 to 18.

The Broadways entered the game handicapped by the absence of Joe Foley, but the other members realizing the situation, resolved to fight as never before to hold their opponents in check. The Y.M.C.I. had the edge on the Broadways in the early stages of play, but a whirlwind attack launched in the closing few moments of the second session and continued in the third, won the Broadways the victory and a big advantage in the series to settle the city championship.

After passing and shooting of the Acres outfit had the institute boys bewildered at times. All members of the team fitted into the combination play perfectly and the Broadways work of the Broadways was mainly responsible for the victory.

The Y.M.C.I. put up a good battle, but they were off on their shooting, particularly in the closing minutes of the game. Many times they would work the ball down the court, but some skillful maneuvering only to have the man receiving the last pass fail in his attempt to score.

The Broadways were aided by both teams were down to fouls. Arthur Ryan, the well known Nashua professional player, refereed the game, and he gave a most creditable performance.

The superiority of the Broadways in general play was forcibly emphasized by the fact that they scored 22 points in the first half, while the Y.M.C.I. scored only 18. The winning aggregation sat nine into the netting. Keyes was the big scorer of the night, making four baskets. Dan O'Connor followed with three. Randall and Connors got one each.

The Y.M.C.I. Kaley and McGowan scored two each, while Lepper got the other one. McKintyre, who showed to advantage in the closing minutes of the game, scored one. The Y.M.C.I. got away to a fine start, with Kaley and McGowan leading before the boys from the Acres got their offensive under way. It required some time for the institute boys to break into the scoring column. He worked hard enough, but he was well covered by Twomey.

NO N. E. LEAGUE THIS YEAR

Proposal to Revive Organization Has Been Abandoned by Steve Flanagan

Strength of Twilight Baseball, Lack of Grounds, Etc., Detract From Success

LAWRENCE, March 15.—The proposal to revive the New England Baseball League has been abandoned for this year. This announcement was made today by Stephen D. Flanagan of this city, chairman of the league.

The strength of twilight baseball organizations, lack of grounds in some cities, and the expense of maintaining a league, combined to detract from the proposal, it was understood. Mr. Flanagan indicated that steps would be taken to organize a league for the season of 1923.

CASES OF ROSSMAN AND YOUNG ARE UNIQUE

Recent press dispatches carried the announcement of the imprisonment of Ralph "Pop" Young in the Philadelphia Athletics. And this, no doubt, means another well-known player from out of the realm of major league baseball.

The going of Young marks the passing of one of the smartest men in the game. For Young was an intelligent player, played "heads up" baseball, and in his prime was considered one of the best second sackers in the majors.

"Pop" was a sterling fielder, being scarce on ground balls, and could cover a territory. He was also especially adept in grabbing short outfield flies as well as tagging runners coming into the bag. While not much of a batter, he was nevertheless a hard man to play in drawing many passes. And in the lead-off position, especially while with the Detroit Tigers, he was a man to watch.

But Young had a jinx. He developed a couple of years ago while playing for Detroit. His arm suddenly went weak, and he was unable to make the short toss to first base with any degree of accuracy.

Time after time he would throw a ball to first base, only to find it with a weird throw to the catcher. His whip seemed to become paralyzed momentarily with the result that the ball would fall into the catcher's mitt. Young's trouble was mental, as he could throw with great speed, but no accuracy.

Young was consequently benched at various intervals with the thought that a rest would do the old arm some good, and that he would be able to throw in a few days. But the trouble would always show up again. He passed Young on to the Athletics, where he was benched for a time. It seemed as if the kindly words of Connie Mack had eased the mental hazard that had almost ruined Young's career.

Young's case is without doubt one of the most unique in the history of the game, though it has somewhat of a parallel in that of Claude Rossman, one-time Detroit first baseman. Rossman, like Young, lacked confidence in his throwing ability, but for some reason he never showed any signs of being a certain player.

The Chinese students of the Lowell Technical school will engage in their second basketball game of the season in the Textile gymnasium Saturday evening with the Chinese American Association. The game will be held at 8 o'clock.

MOST IMPORTANT BOUT IN FLAHERTY'S CAREER

Martin Flaherty, Jr., who is to meet George Bush of Brooklyn, N. Y., in the main bout of the Moody club show at the Crescent rink tonight looks upon the impending bout as the most important of his career.

Much depends on the outcome. In fact there is at stake more than ever before in Flaherty's career. If he wins he has been promised a bout in Madison square garden, New York. This is a big incentive, one that is the ambition of all boxers to attain. And in addition to the opportunity of reaching the goal, Young Flaherty has other reasons to regard tonight's bout with importance.

It will mark his first ring engagement since his memorable bout with Johnny Avila on New Year's day. That fight was without question one of the season's best. For in it he defeated a champion, showing him with vicious blows from all angles. But in that fight, he was not at his best. He was not at his best in the way he fought, but in the way he fought, he was not at his best.

The victorious outcome gives Lowell the chance it has been looking for. The latter team was leading the National Roller Polo league, when the season was postponed too much for the Whalers. Yet in the face of the dark and dreary picture the Dugan-Peterson club never gave up hope of a victory in the league.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Old time fairs and present day followers of roller polo are still talking of the great Lowell-New Bedford series which passed into history on Tuesday night last.

The games were all well played and bitterly fought, with but one, the final engagement, being at all one-sided. The Lowell team was led by Lowell, by narrow margins, the first by one point in overtime and the second by two goals in the regulation time.

ANNUAL PUPPY SHOW

Dogs of Excellent Breed Shown by Lowell Kennel Club Members

The annual puppy show of the Lowell Kennel club was held last night in its hall in the Odd Fellows building in Middlesex street. Many dogs were shown in each class and all were excellent specimens of their breeds. An exceptionally large crowd turned out to witness the judging of the dogs and enthusiasm ran high over the judges' choices.

The loving cup, won by Kid Williams in the contest with Bill Brennan, will be presented to the Lowell star at tomorrow night's game. Frank Ricard, who donated the cup, will be on hand to pass it over to the Kid. The cup is emblematic of the goal and rush championship for the 1922-1923 season.

Arthur Ryan of Nashua, who refereed last night's Y.M.C.I.-Broadway basketball game, is one of the leading professional players in the city. He has appeared here on several occasions and his spectacular floor work and accurate shooting have also been a treat to look upon. He has been a quiet busy season up in New Hampshire and has figured in a number of thrilling games. In addition to being a class basketball player, he is also a good baseball player and has been identified with several minor league ball clubs.

Stanley Stasiek, the Polish giant wrestler, who is to appear in Lowell at the Lowell rink, appeared here a few weeks ago and his work made a deep impression upon those who saw him in action. He's still a young man, but he has been meeting and defeating some of the best grapplers in the country. His ultimate goal is a championship in the world's championship.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The cue of Willie Hoppe still is a magic wand; his wielder still is the invincible master of the Ivorys. Young Jack Schaefer, son of the old wizard, knows it today.

Hoppe completed his defense of his 18.2 balk line billiard world championship title last night, amassing 1500 points in the three blocks of his challenge. He defeated the son of the old wizard, Young Jack Schaefer, by the score of 1500 to 1400. The defender made the 500 he needed while his opponent was collecting 347.

With drama and color from the first rank for break on Monday night and repeat throughout with display of emotion and temperament, the three-day tournament came to a final and complete mastery of the son of the old wizard. He defeated the son of the old wizard, Young Jack Schaefer, by the score of 1500 to 1400. The defender made the 500 he needed while his opponent was collecting 347.

Hoppe came to the table last night with a lead of 1500 to 1400. He had the ball in perfect position to continue his run. He was in his best stroke. He counted 43 before he missed an easy one-cushion draw.

Not until his fifth turn at the table, did Schaefer master himself. Then he reeled off the longest run of the tournament, clearing 1500 points in the three blocks of his challenge. ## SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Old time fairs and present day followers of roller polo are still talking of the great Lowell-New Bedford series which passed into history on Tuesday night last.

The games were all well played and bitterly fought, with but one, the final engagement, being at all one-sided. The Lowell team was led by Lowell, by narrow margins, the first by one point in overtime and the second by two goals in the regulation time.

The victorious outcome gives Lowell the chance it has been looking for. The latter team was leading the National Roller Polo league, when the season was postponed too much for the Whalers. Yet in the face of the dark and dreary picture the Dugan-Peterson club never gave up hope of a victory in the league.

The going of Young marks the passing of one of the smartest men in the game. For Young was an intelligent player, played "heads up" baseball, and in his prime was considered one of the best second sackers in the majors.

Young's case is without doubt one of the most unique in the history of the game, though it has somewhat of a parallel in that of Claude Rossman, one-time Detroit first baseman. Rossman, like Young, lacked confidence in his throwing ability, but for some reason he never showed any signs of being a certain player.

The Chinese students of the Lowell Technical school will engage in their second basketball game of the season in the Textile gymnasium Saturday evening with the Chinese American Association. The game will be held at 8 o'clock.

ANNUAL PUPPY SHOW

Dogs of Excellent Breed Shown by Lowell Kennel Club Members

The annual puppy show of the Lowell Kennel club was held last night in its hall in the Odd Fellows building in Middlesex street. Many dogs were shown in each class and all were excellent specimens of their breeds. An exceptionally large crowd turned out to witness the judging of the dogs and enthusiasm ran high over the judges' choices.

The loving cup, won by Kid Williams in the contest with Bill Brennan, will be presented to the Lowell star at tomorrow night's game. Frank Ricard, who donated the cup, will be on hand to pass it over to the Kid. The cup is emblematic of the goal and rush championship for the 1922-1923 season.

Arthur Ryan of Nashua, who refereed last night's Y.M.C.I.-Broadway basketball game, is one of the leading professional players in the city. He has appeared here on several occasions and his spectacular floor work and accurate shooting have also been a treat to look upon. He has been a quiet busy season up in New Hampshire and has figured in a number of thrilling games. In addition to being a class basketball player, he is also a good baseball player and has been identified with several minor league ball clubs.

Stanley Stasiek, the Polish giant wrestler, who is to appear in Lowell at the Lowell rink, appeared here a few weeks ago and his work made a deep impression upon those who saw him in action. He's still a young man, but he has been meeting and defeating some of the best grapplers in the country. His ultimate goal is a championship in the world's championship.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

BUCKAROOS RECALL WILD WEST DAYS

By Special Correspondent
SALINAS, Calif., March 15.—Well, pard, the old wild west ain't gone yet! They can give 'em airplanes and movies and radio, but that don't mean the boys has forgot how to rustle a little cattle now an' then.

Maybe they ain't quite as slick as they used to be. They're a little outa practice. If they wasn't, the Radcliffe boys and Al Stone wouldn't of got corralled like they did.

You've heard about it, ain't you? Well, the Radcliffe boys and Al Stone is the toughest ridin', hardest ridin' buckaroos on any man's range. It wasn't Al Stone stuck on that wild canyon, Frying Pan, when every one else was takin' dust?

taken half the rodeo medals in the west? I'm tellin' you!

And then they ups and arrests 'em, for a quiet little cattle rustlin'!

Alkali Then Fault

An' all because of that loud-mouthed Alkali Ike, a ornery "chuck-line rider." Wal, a chuck-line has the same social standin' as a sheep-herder. He rides from ranch to ranch feedin' on the bounty of the natives.

Wal, Alkali Ike gets a hold of some bootleg. An' he goes round blabbin' how he was invited in on a little brandin' party over to Stone's ranch.

The sheriff gets hold of Ike and Ike splits the beans. He says the boys got some cattle from the Miller and Lax ranch and got a little careless with the branding iron.

Ike said they dockered up the "double box" brand and turned it into a "double box arrow."

Wal, the sheriff grabbed the Radcliffe boys, Nick and Bill.

Nick had sat in a little poker session with the acees was runnin' against him and got hard up.

Anyhow the Radcliffe boys coughed up and, they say, mixed Al in it. The sheriff said the boys spilled everything—even that they done it on Al Stone's ranch.

Let Al Go

So the first jury let Al go, even with Ike's story and the Radcliffe boys. They almost gave him a medal, too. They're all green him rids and I feel sorry for the poor district attorney what's got to do his duty and prosecute.

They got some more charges agin' him and the Radcliffe boys still have gotta go through with it. They've come clean and probably'll get off easy.

The bird I feels sorry for most is Alkali Ike. They had to put him in jail to keep him sober nuf to go on the stand. But wait 'til that ornery chuck-line goes out agin to get handcuffed. Say, he'll be livin' on leards' wings and angleworms the rest of his life.

That's all they's to the story, pard, but don't let 'em tell you the west is gone.

BERLIN REJECTS GOWNS CHINESE ARMY DIVISION FROM FRANCE ADOPTS CHRISTIAN FAITH

BERLIN, March 15.—Frieda and Greichen are to have no more Paris gowns. There are to be no more smart little hats brought to Germany from the fashionable millinery shops on the Place Vendôme and the Rue de la Paix.

These articles are not permitted to cross the German boundary since the French invasion of the Ruhr, and the leaders of the German fashion industry have instructed their buyers that French models are not to be bought either directly or indirectly.

High prices in France had prevented German firms from buying many models. Consequently the importations of such fashions from France had been inconsiderable as compared to pre-war times. But Berlin modistes were slowly resuming their Paris trips and buying limited quantities of late creations, when the Ruhr trouble came along and brought the general boycott against articles made in France.

Baron Dreyer, managing director of one of Berlin's greatest fashion shops, told the correspondent of The Associated Press that this latest prohibition will make little difference to Berlin designers, as they have not relied directly on Paris for their styles since the beginning of the war and have, to a great extent, become creators of their own models.

"Of course, many of our ideas come from Paris. It is foolish to deny that Paris leads in the creation of models," declared the baron. "But Germany has learned to develop Parisian suggestions and adapt them. In many cases they are greatly modified, as Parisian designs are often too extreme for our taste. The prohibition against the importation of French goods will affect modistes and milliners only in two lines, silk and flowers. It is difficult to replace certain French silks and flowers."

Vienna and Berlin have been working together in the development of modern fashions. The beginning of the World war, because of the low exchange they have been successful in developing a considerable trade for model gowns in the Scandinavian countries, the Balkans and Central Europe. American and French fashion magazines have been the source of many ideas for the German and Austrian fashion creators. They also send their representatives to the great wintering places on the Riviera and have little difficulty in keeping up with the latest French ideas.

In Berlin virtually all French and Belgian nationals occupying apartments or rooms are being dispossessed. They were hired in January from all hotels. There are about 2000 French and 1000 Belgians resident in the city.

In the stores merchants and clerks have no time for Frenchmen and will not knowingly serve them. Women clerks in shops are even more bitter against the French than men, and take great pains to make sure their customers are not their most hated enemies.

Frenchmen are brusquely ordered out of business houses as soon as their nationality becomes known. Cafes and bars refuse to serve them. Barber shops have hung up the sign "No Frenchmen admitted," and taxicabs turn down everyone with a French accent.

HELIUM GAS MAY NOW BE LIQUIFIED

TORONTO, Ont., March 15.—Professor John C. McClellan, of the University of Toronto, has discovered a process for liquefying helium gas. The new discovery, it is said, will open up big possibilities for the gas in the industrial field.

Helium is a non-combustible gas which is nearly as light as hydrogen gas and can be used as a substitute for it. Its principal use up to the present time has been as a filling for dirigible balloons and other lighter-than-air craft, because of its non-flammability. Many air disasters due to the ignition of gas bags could have been avoided, it is said, if helium gas had been used.

In its new liquefied state helium will be particularly valuable in refrigeration, since its temperature reaches within one degree of absolute zero. This property of extreme temperature will also make the liquefied gas especially useful in scientific research, according to Professor McClellan.

The value of helium as a commercial product is enhanced by its comparative scarcity. The United States and Canada are the only countries in which it is found. During the war the United States took steps to extract and conserve its helium gas, and since the war it has prohibited its export from the country. Canada's source of helium is located at Bow Island, near Calgary, Alta. This field is said to be the largest in existence.

ELMAN TALKS OF AMERICAN GIRLS

Micha Elman, the great Russian violinist, who will appear tomorrow night at the Memorial Auditorium, has not escaped the romanticism of the music and the very little while a rumor is spread about that he is engaged to this or that popular young musician.

The young violinist is coming to a stand, he says, "where he absolutely hates romance." "I am young and all that," he answered an interviewer, "and I love my American women, but please do not say that I am engaged when I talk to one. You must know it is very difficult for me to resist that great pleasure; in fact," said Elman, "I can resist anything but temptation." Sometimes I wish I were just one of your college boys who spends his time between baseball and girls.

Why is it because I happen to play the violin well, everybody takes an interest in my affairs and the heart? Please tell your readers that I am just as human as anybody else and that a girl appeals to me as such—but do not make me out as being engaged and having a romance every time I show an interest in one of them."

Tickets for his Lowell concert are on sale at Steiner's.

BIG CORPORATION TO CONDUCT BOXING

NEW YORK, March 15.—A $1,500,000 corporation has been formed to conduct boxing bouts at the Polo grounds, home of the New York Giants, and to be controlled largely by directors of the ball club. It was announced last night by Tom O'Rourke, boxing promoter. He will be matchmaker of the new organization.

A $25,000 purse has been offered to Larry Angel Phipps for a match between him and Jim Herman, of Omaha, Neb., on June 2.

CHICAGO, March 15.—The eleventh division of the Chinese army, called by some "the Chinese Ironsides," commanded by Major General Feng Yu Hsiang, known as "the Growler of China," has become solidly Christian, according to a cablegram received today by the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The cablegram, which was from the Rev. Edward Kinglet, Lowry, a returned missionary to China residing in Peking, told of the conversion of 4000 soldiers of the eleventh division, with General Feng assisting at the ceremony. According to the board of foreign missions there were only about this number of soldiers remaining in General Feng's division who were not Christians as the board infers that this completes the personnel of this fighting group of China.

It was General Feng and his 11th division which swooped down from Shensi province to the relief of Peking, then being defended by General Wu Pei Fu in the fighting of last summer. General Feng threw his men into the path of the victorious Manchukuo and hurled them back in a defeat, which eventually resulted in rout. At that time the Christian soldiers wore arm bands containing the stern military ideals of their leader. They advanced to the fray singing Christian hymns. This division is the only one in the Chinese army in which there is definite welfare work and vocational training for the men, all of which is due to the constructive activity of their leader, the board states.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR

Women Tell Each Other How They Have Been Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Perryburg, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my sides all the time. I can't remember just how long I suffered, but it was for some time. One day I was talking with a lady I met on a car, and I told her how I was feeling and she said she had been just like I was with pains and nervous troubles, and she took the Vegetable Compound, and it cured her. So then I went and got some, and I certainly recommend it for it is good. Whenever I see any woman who is sick I try to get her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. ADA FRICK, Route 3, Perryburg, Ohio.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. ## Can Linoleum Floors Help the Merchant Sell Goods?

THE floor of a store can be made as much a selling asset as the fixtures in which goods are displayed. People like to buy in a clean, attractive place.

But when business floors are hard to keep clean, and expensive to keep new-looking, they are seldom a source of pride. If the floor is linoleum, it can be cleaned thoroughly in a remarkably short time, and an occasional waxing will actually mellow its color and improve its looks.

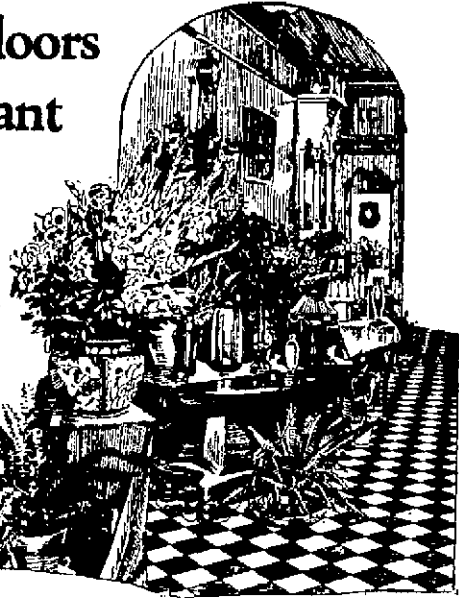

Besides, the tough, durable surface of linoleum is smooth and non-absorbent. Things dropped on it do not stick to it or stain it. It does not crack or splinter.

Low upkeep cost

The economy of maintaining the good appearance of such a floor has induced thousands of retail stores to install floors of Armstrong's Linoleum.

Large stores and business offices have bought Armstrong's Linoleum as a result of figuring out the saving. Smaller stores have bought it on the strength of observing its use in other places and from recommendations received from men in similar lines of business.

If you are interested in better floors for store, shop, office or public building,

The floor of the Colonial Flower Shop, Providence, R.I. is Armstrong's Straight Line Inlaid Linoleum Pattern No. 330

What linoleum is

Linoleum is a mixture of powdered cork and oxidized linseed oil, pressed on burlap. It takes its name from linus, flax, and oleum, oil. These substances blend together into a material that is remarkable for its toughness, durability, and resilience.

Linoleum permanently cemented in place requires no stripping or retrimming. Such a floor is smooth and tight

NEW DRY CHIEF ON JOB ATTACKS DAUGHTERY

Smith, Successor to Appleby, Out to Get Persons Who Make Poison Liquor

BOSTON, March 14.—Charles J. Smith, who began work today as prohibition division chief for New England in succession to John D. Appleby, resigned, said that he would make a special effort to put out of business persons who were redistilling denatured alcohol and selling the product as whiskey.

"This is the stuff that is doing most of the harm," he said. Distillers are getting this poisonous substance in carload lots and are redistilling it wholesale, removing only part of the poison.

He said no preparations would be made for commissioning a fleet of rum chasers to operate off the New England coast unless orders were received from Washington to follow out this recommendation of his predecessor.

Mr. Smith has worked as a prohibition agent at Toledo, Ohio, Pittsburgh and Providence.

ARMY AVIATORS BOMB FIVE-MILE ICE JAM

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., March 14.—(By the Associated Press.) Army aviators today bombed the five mile ice jam on the belows river which has threatened to result in the flooding of this town, but were unable to move the jam.

Two large Martin bombers were used. The aircraft dropped seven 300-pound bombs, three of which hit land, but injured no one. The others cracked great holes in the ice but failed to move the jam.

Fear is held that ice jams from above will come down the river with the continuation of warm weather and force the water out into the town.

Another attempt may be made to open the flow tomorrow the aviators said.

TO FIX WAGES AND HOURS OF WOMEN WORKERS

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Federal and state laws which would fix minimum wages to be received by women and children, regulate their hours of labor and prescribe working conditions were under attack today in the supreme court.

While the two cases before the court arose under an act of congress, relating to the District of Columbia, the 13 states which have minimum wage laws recognize that the life of such legislation was at stake and six of them, California, Kansas, New York, Oregon, Washington and Wisconsin, obtained permission, as friends of the court to file briefs and participate in the oral argument. The two cases were brought by the Children's Hospital and the Little A. Lyons, against the minimum wage law of Washington, the constitutionality of the law on the ground that it abridged the freedom of contract for personal services and was beyond legislative power.

Minimum wage laws were defended as public regulations to protect the public health, safety, morals and welfare and as within legislative discretion.

HOPE OF SOLVING SCHNEIDER MURDER

NEW YORK, March 14.—Hope of solving the mystery in the murder of Frederick Schneider, Broadway terror, was revived today by a telephone call from a woman lived by an offer of $5000 reward for information as to the slayer's identity.

Detectives were given the name of a young blond woman, with whom Schneider had been intimate for some time and who was declared to have been with him a few minutes before the murder. The informant said this woman had said to her on the telephone:

"I was with Fred Schneider a few minutes before the murder, and believe me, he got what was coming to him."

The blond woman, who was said to be married and the daughter of a police official, is declared to have been absent from her home since the murder investigation started.

GIRLS RESCUE TWO LITTLE ONES AT FIRE

BROOKLYN, March 14.—When fire filled the rooms on the second floor of a two and a half story dwelling two little girls, aged three and four, were rescued from the flames this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Stacia Klenowski, 11, and Bernice Gogis, 9, made their way into the kitchen where the fire was hottest, then to a bedroom where Albert and Adeline Klenowski, aged four and two and a half years, respectively, were overcome by smoke and fright and carried to the little ones in their arms.

Fire Chief Daley and the police commended Stacia and Bernice for their heroism.

The fire started in a wood box back of the kitchen stove, and caused a $2500 damage.

MRS. SALADES GETS 20-YEAR TERM

NEW YORK, March 14.—Mrs. Pauline Salades, convicted of the Martellier murder of Oscar H. Martellier, today, was sentenced to 20 years to life in the women's prison at Auburn. She received the sentence in a mood of resignation. Her mother had forcibly dressed her and led her before Judge Koenig.

Mrs. Salades made three attempts to commit suicide after she had been convicted.

PAPPAS' COUNSEL APPEALS TO COX

BOSTON, March 14.—Counsel for Paul Pappas, under sentence to die in the electric chair, today appealed to Governor Cox for a stay of execution on the ground that new evidence had come to light. At the same time a petition for clemency signed by several thousand Greek citizens of the state was given the governor. Pappas convicted of killing his associate lodging house keeper, Allen Arsenides, in the South End, two years ago, claims the murder was the act of another man.

Gov. Blaine Flays Attorney General for Refusal to Make Survey

MADISON, Wis., March 14.—Refusal of Attorney General Daugherty to make a survey of ex-service men in federal prisons to determine their physical and mental condition as suggested by Governor Blaine of Wisconsin, brought an attack from the governor.

"You decline to make the survey on the ground that the work is outlined, if attempted in our federal penitentiary, would require more time and assistance than is at the command of the department and for this reason refuse to state it is impracticable," Governor Blaine said in a letter to the attorney general. "This is most astounding. I am unwilling to believe that you are willing to rest your refusal upon any such ground, when I call to your attention that in all probability you have men who served in the late war suffering from mental and physical disability due entirely to their service for their country and because of that mental condition they have come to their sad plight."

"I am sending a summary of facts found in Wisconsin penal institutions which show that a large number of those men are mentally and physically deficient, requiring hospitalization instead of prison bars."

HERMIT FOUND DEAD, $16,000 HIDDEN IN BED

CLAY CENTRE, O., March 14.—Carl Jensen, 54 years old, Clay Centre hermit, was found dead in his bed, in which he had concealed $16,000 in currency.

Near the bed were several clubs which Jensen had fitted up with spikes and loaded with lead, and a gun was at hand apparently for use in case of attempted robbery.

Neighbors found the aged man with his boots on and fully clothed, lying in bed. The money was in an old grain sack in the bed in $20, $50 and $100 bills.

HEAD OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE MAKES REPLY

NEW YORK, March 14.—William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league in a statement today regarding the decision that the league must account for all money expended for campaign purposes, declared that the "wets have evidently read into the decision much that is not there."

"In case the decision stands, it will be the decision of the court and not the interpretation of that decision by the press and the wets, that will be binding upon the league," the statement said.

RUM-RUNNING FLEET MENACE TO NAVIGATION

FRENCH TO PROTECT BRITISH FIRMS

LONDON, March 14.—(By the Associated Press.) In the face of speeches in the house of commons characterizing the Rhineland situation as most serious, the British commercial world today took fresh encouragement from the receipt by the foreign office of French assurances that every effort will be made to protect British firms and remove the difficulties hindering commercial activities in the occupied district.

The French pronouncement was in reply to notes sent by Great Britain to the French and Belgian governments informing them of the numerous complaints received from British traders. A similar favorable reply has been received from Belgium.

VALUABLE MINERALS STOLEN

PETROGRAD, March 14.—Four pounds of pure iridium and four pounds of osmium, two of the most valuable and rarest of precious minerals, were recently stolen from the Petrograd metallurgical institute. The robbers also succeeded in getting away with six pounds of platinum. All of the metals had been at the institute, as laboratory specimens, for many years.

MANY WITH DEFECTIVE VISION

BOSTON, March 14.—Secretary of Labor Davis in a letter to President (Emory) George S. Houghton of the New England Society of Ophthalmologists, said that study of figures of the extent of eye impairment in this country was astounding. Of 40,000,000 persons gainfully employed, he said, he was informed that upwards of 25,000,000 suffered from some form of defective vision. "I myself know my personal experience," he added, "sometimes of the evils which come in the strain of watching molten metal through the peepholes of a puddling furnace."

SORROWS OF MILLION YEARS PEER FORTH FROM BENEATH LONG LASHES OF ARMENIAN GIRL

MRS. ELISHA SHAHAN, SHOWING BRAND ON HER FOREHEAD

By ROY GIBBONS
NBA Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, March 15.—Though the scars are 19, the sorrows of a million years peer forth from beneath the long, lashed eyes of Mrs. Elisha Shahan.

For in her brief span of years she has undergone almost unbelievable tortures. She has been rescued by British soldiers and taken to Smyrna. Today the ideal of a sheik as a lover, held by many American girls, is not shared by Mrs. Shahan. She finds the promise of a sheik's love here far preferable to the romantic love of any sheik beneath the desert moon.

There were six Armenian priests. Arabs were digging out their eyes, breaking their arms and pulling out their finger-nails.

"Then I fainted. When I recovered, I escaped under cover of the darkness. I was recaptured and dragged back, fastened to a horse's tail to Ednah," Mrs. Shahan finally was rescued by British soldiers and taken to Smyrna.

At the rate of 35 cents a day! Kissinger didn't charge a machine-gun post. He didn't capture a regiment of Spaniards single-handed. He didn't carry dispatches through a rain of bullets.

All those things, heroic though they may be, are commonplace compared to the supreme deed of self-sacrifice performed by Kissinger.

For Kissinger submitted his body to army surgeons as a human research laboratory that they might discover a virus to halt the spread of yellow fever—a scourge more deadly than all the Spanish rifle balls, shrapnel, sabers and bayonets put together.

He Volunteers
When the yellow fever plague was killing soldiers of the American expeditionary forces in Cuba like flies, the medical branch of the expedition asked for volunteers upon whom to try their experimental virus.

Three volunteered. Kissinger was one. The three heroes were inoculated with the virus of the dread malady. They went through suffering that has no parallel in Dante's imagined tortures of hell.

Two of the volunteers died under the strain. Kissinger came through alive—but with his legs twisted and deformed and paralyzed.

He would have to crawl through life on hands and knees until death freed him, physicians said and shook their heads gravely.

Then congress, in recognition of Kissinger's service, granted him an allowance of $1200 a year.

On that he managed for years to get along. But his family was growing. He needed more to feed his children. Friends secured for him a $12-a-month pension in addition to his annuity.

Then suddenly Kissinger received a bill from a government clerk in Washington, informing him he owed the government $1600.

Kissinger, the clerk explained, had been drawing his annuity illegally ever since he had started drawing his pension.

And the annuity was immediately cut off.

$12 a Month
Kissinger, though, continued to draw his $12 a month on which he is expected to support his family, for his crippled condition precludes his performing any profitable work.

But Congressmen have since moved at Toledo, a veteran of the Civil war has become interested in Kissinger's case. He'll introduce a special act at the next session of congress to grant Kissinger an annuity.

Meanwhile a hero, perhaps the greatest of the Spanish-American war, must continue to live on 35 cents a day.

Crippled in Spanish War, John Kissinger New Receives His "Reward"

By NEA Service
TOLEDO, O., March 15.—Hopelessly crippled through performance of one of the most heroic deeds of the Spanish-American war, John Kissinger, Honor, Mich., father of a family, is being rewarded by a grateful government.

Syrup Pepsin Helps Nature Give Relief

Try it when a Laxative is needed and see the wonderful results

IT is not necessary to take a violent physic for so simple an ailment as constipation. Yet many thoughtless parents give mercury in the form of calomel, and coal-tar in the form of phenol when a natural vegetable compound like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will do the work equally well and without danger. People should realize that mercury will salivate and in certain conditions loosen the teeth; that phenolphthalein, by whatever name known and however disguised in candy, may cause dermatitis and other skin eruptions; that salt waters and powders may concentrate the blood, dry up the skin and cause lassitude.

You can take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin yourself or give it to a babe in arms, as thousands of mothers do every day, with the confidence that it is the safest and best medicine you can use for constipation and such complaints. A teaspoonful will relieve you over night even if the constipation has been chronic for years.

Mrs. A. Arrenewax of Orange, Texas, suffered from constipation for six years and found no relief until she took Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin; and Mrs. Gus Anderson of Ball, Kans., corrected her bowel trouble so that she now eats and sleeps normally. Bring a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin into your own home and let the family use it for constipation, biliousness, wind, gas, headaches, flatulency, and to break up fevers and colds.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a compound of Egyptian pepsin and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, and does not cramp or gripe. Every druggist handles it, and bottles are so generous that the cost amounts to only about a cent a dose. You buy it with the understanding that if it does not do as claimed your money will be refunded. The names of all the ingredients are on the package.

Jack Daw in Balloon Land. Chapter 13

A big eagle swooped down to the boxing ring and took hold of the losing boxing balloon. "Where is that bird going?" shouted Jack. "Why," replied Cappy Balloon, "he's taking that thin balloon up to Mister South Wind to have him blown back into the right shape once more."

"Mister South Wind!" replied Jack, "Can we go along? I'd like very much to see how Mister South Wind works." "Sure, you can go," shouted Cappy. And then, as he called for another huge eagle balloon, he told Jack to take Flip in his arms and prepare for a flight to South Wind's home.

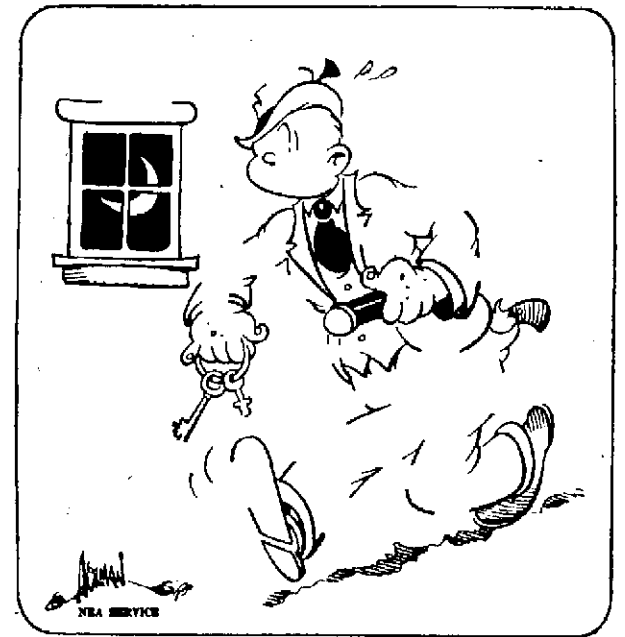

When the second big eagle arrived it took hold of Jack's shoulder and lifted him right off of the cloud. Jack was clinging tightly to Flip, and as they moved rapidly through the air, Cappy Balloon floated along nearby. It was a very interesting trip among the clouds. (Continued.)

"WHICH ONE OF MY LEGS IS PEG?"

"Hello!" said Nick. "Who are you?"
"Can't you see?" asked a strange person thumping toward them on a peg-leg.
"Are you Peg-Leg?" asked Nancy. "Certainly!" said the new person. "Why?" asked Nick. "Just because. Besides I heard you say you were going to put Jack Straw out."
"Well, we are," answered Nick. "That's what we came to. Mix-Up Land for Jack Straw put King Even-Seven out and we are going to put him out."
"We don't know yet," it was Nancy's turn to say, "but we're going to do it."
"How?" asked Peg-Leg again. "Well, if you must know," said Nancy, "we've got magic shoes. We have passed the fiery mountain all right, so I guess we can cross that river there! It isn't so very wide anyway, and Jack Straw's house is just outside it."
"Humph!" exclaimed Peg-Leg. "What's in your basket?"
"Eggs. They're magical eggs that the 'Cut-Out Woman' gave us."
"That's nothing. I'm smarter than any old Cut-Out Woman," said Peg-Leg. "Now watch what happens. Which one of my legs is peg?"
"Left!" said Nick.
Peg-Leg put both hands behind him and then he asked, "Now which?"
"Right!" said Nancy.
"Oh, oh, that's queer! What kind of magic do you use?" cried Nancy.
"Won't tell," said Peg-Leg, wagging his head. "Only you won't get across that river to Jack Straw's house, eggs or no eggs, shoes or no shoes."
"What's that got to do with peg legs changing around?" asked Nick.
"I'll tell you what," said Peg-Leg boastfully. "Because I'm not Peg-Leg at all, but Jack Straw himself and I've still got my magic ring on my left thumb. If I turn it around I can do anything I wish to you. So look out."

DO YOUR BEST, NO MATTER HOW LITTLE OR UNIMPORTANT A THING SEEMS, SAYS LOIS WILSON

LOIS WILSON

By JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, March 15.—Lois Wilson is the first shrinking violet I ever met in the movie business. Some I've met have had little to say because they were shy or downright dumb, but Lois Wilson is neither. She is serious and sincere and highly intelligent.

The main fault with those attributes is that they do not make good copy. You just can't make a verbal bouquet of sincerity and intelligence; they fizz and sputter out when set down in print.

Let's try it.

"I've learned one thing and that is to do my best, no matter how little or unimportant the thing seems."

Lois Wilson said that. It doesn't sound like a headline, does it? Coming from almost anyone else I've met in the picture business I would have considered that the beginning of a set speech, something prepared beforehand for the interviewer to use.

In this instance Miss Wilson was upbraiding herself for her poor work in "The Hell Divers." She really was flat and colorless in that.

"I was cast for that film on short notice and didn't especially fancy the role and that attitude was reflected in the picture," Miss Wilson went on. "When I saw the picture I was ashamed. I made up my mind then to do my best no matter how trivial my part might seem."

She likes her roles in "What Every Woman Knows" and "Miss Lulu Bett," but what she really wants to do is a film in which she can be herself.

"There'll be plenty of time for character parts later on," she says. "Just think, in my next picture, 'Only 35,' I'll be a mother!"

None of us did any acting in "The Covered Wagon." We lived our parts in that. In one scene when they called for me to go before the camera my feet were so cold they were numb, I could hardly feel them touch the ground."

That was a pretty long speech for Miss Wilson. I began to think that she might give me a dash of color, something romantic about herself to pep up this story.

"How did you start in the films?" I asked her.

She blushed and twisted a finger of her glove about her finger. "Oh, let's not talk about that. I don't want to see that in print."

I was ashamed and wondering what sort of faux pas I had made when Mrs. Conrad Nagel helped me out. "Tell him, Lois. There's nothing about that to be ashamed of."

But Lois lowered her head until the top of her hat faced me and I felt like

DR. LYDSTON, FAMOUS SURGEON, DEAD

CHICAGO, March 15.—Dr. Frank Lydston, who died in Los Angeles Tuesday night, was one of the foremost surgeons of the country and a pioneer in this country in gland transplantation.

Dr. Lydston, who was a professor of medicine at the University of Illinois, started the medical world in 1914, by transplanting the glands of an 18-year-old boy, a suicide, to his own body.

A month later, Dr. Lydston removed a gland from a 17-year-old girl, whose head had been crushed in an accident, and introduced it into the body of a woman 50 years old, ill for a long time.

Although he did not claim for his work complete rejuvenation, he did believe it would do away with dementia praecox, which follows certain operations in women, and which, he said, was responsible for 65 per cent of the insanity.

Dr. Lydston was born in Tuleon, Cal., in 1868, and was graduated from the Bellevue hospital medical college in 1893.

In 1910, he began a campaign against the practice of "fee-splitting" between physicians and surgeons working on the same case.

Fall River Faces Big Mill Strike

12 Perish as British Steamer Sinks

IMPENDING STRIKE IN FALL RIVER MILLS, WHICH EMPLOY 36,000, ADVANCES ANOTHER STAGE

FALL RIVER, March 15.—The impending strike in the cotton mills of this city, which employ 36,000 operatives, advanced another stage today when the textile council called a meeting tonight to draft demands, and set the amount for a wage advance.

The United Textile Workers of America have a demand for a 25 per cent increase outstanding. The manufacturers have declared they cannot raise wages and will close their mills rather than cut in on the present slim margins of profit. Mayor Edmund P. Talbot has invoked the aid of the state board of conciliation and arbitration, saying that a strike is seriously threatened.

All indications today were that operatives would be called out within a week, both the United Textile Workers and the textile council officials having been authorized by their constituent unions to take such action if necessary. The textile council, which meets tonight is the organization of operatives which ordinarily has acted as spokesmen for the workers in the industry here. The United Textile Workers in recent months has gained strength and if they decide to go out together, their strength is estimated to represent about one-half the operatives in the city.

LOCAL GREEK CITIZENS JOIN IN EFFORT TO SAVE LIFE OF FELLOW COUNTRYMAN

Thousands of Lowell Greek-speaking citizens are attaching their names to a widely-circulated petition that is being prepared to stay the execution of Paul Pappas, who is scheduled to pay the life penalty for the alleged murder of Mrs. Alice Arsenault in Boston on Christmas Eve, 1919.

The campaign to save Pappas from the death chair six weeks from today, is spreading all over New England. Hundreds of Greek-speaking men and women are distributing the petitions that are to be sent to Governor Channing Cox, demanding a stay of execution. Lowell has been canvassed diligently since last Sunday, and yesterday more than 150 more names of local Greek citizens were secured by the petition carriers. Centerville was visited this morning and every man of petition-carriers. Centerville was visited by the name-solicitors, attached their signatures to the papers.

The sympathy that is felt for Pappas appears to be widespread. Thousands of dollars have been subscribed by Greek-speaking citizens in Massachusetts and New Hampshire and Rhode Island, in the effort to save the life of the Boston man, who had friends in Lowell.

Lowell and many other Greek-speaking new England communities.

Numerous Lowell Greeks today signed the papers, not knowing exactly what features were attached to the papers or their object, yet believing that the campaign was one worth supporting, because of the fact that so many people, including many American-born citizens, have assisted in waging the present campaign to have Pappas saved from the electric chair and given a new trial.

A new trial is what the petition, circulated by the Greeks today, is asking. Evidence is alleged to be on file that will be presented in due time in the effort to save Pappas from death with the hope for possibility of his not only securing a new trial but ultimate release from custody.

In Lynn a committee representing 5000 Greek-speaking citizens called in Mayor McFetridge and asked his co-operation in the move to get a stay of sentence for their countryman. McFetridge pledged his support.

Two mass meetings were held last evening in Peabody and in Lynn to protest Pappas' execution.

SIX WOMEN WERE CREMATED

Burned to Death in Their Beds—Seventh Killed in Leap From Building

Stable Man Perished in Effort to Rescue Woman—Workman Killed by Explosion

ANGELICA, N. Y., March 15.—Seven women and two men perished when the Allegheny county almshouse on 10th outskirts of this village burned early today.

Six of the women were cremated in their beds and the seventh was killed when she leaped from the upper window of the blazing building.

Charles Sanborn, head stableman, perished in an effort to rescue women inmates. A workman was killed by an explosion which preceded the fire.

In the basement of the two-story wooden structure 24 women patients were quartered. The fire spread to the administration building.

The building where the women were quartered was 250 feet long and joined a concrete structure where the 23 men inmates were quartered.

Sanborn is credited with unusual bravery. He made his way into the blazing structure three times and each time carried out one of the women. On his fourth trip back into the building, the floors caved in and he was burned to death.

PENALTY FOR THIRST AFTER KNOWLEDGE

Returning from his night's work in a local mill about six o'clock this morning, Thomas Guilote, while passing the store of James Stamas, decided that a little reading before breakfast might prove helpful and appetizing. Consequently he helped himself to three newspapers from the stand and calmly proceeded on his way until he was apprehended by Officer Nickles and taken to the police station on a charge of larceny.

In the district court this morning, Guilote pleaded guilty and the case was continued until March 19 pending an investigation of defendant's home conditions. The complainant, Stamas, told the court he had been missing papers regularly of late and that while the offense was not a serious one, it was aggravating and he wished it stopped. Asked why he took the papers, Guilote replied that he was saving coupons for a prize.

GOLDMAN AND TAYLOR INDICTED

Two Secret Indictments in Connection With Looting of Bank Made Public

Taylor and Goldman Coming to Boston for Trial, Says U. S. Attorney

BOSTON, March 15.—With the return from Chicago today of Assistant United States Attorney Sullivan, two secret indictments returned recently in connection with the looting of the First National bank of Warren were made public. Sullivan said that Frank L. Taylor, 350-a-week president of the bank, under arrest in Chicago, would come to this city some time this week, and that Abraham Goldman, held under bonds in Chicago in connection with the case, would come here later for trial.

One indictment charges Taylor with misapplication of securities valued at $200,000 and fraudulent conversion for the benefit of Joseph H. Marcano, who with his father-in-law, Goldman, obtained control of the bank shortly before Taylor's flight. This indictment also charges Goldman and Marcano with aiding and abetting in the misapplication.

The second indictment charges embezzlement of credits valued at $200,000 against Taylor and their conversion to his own use and also charges Goldman and Marcano with aiding and abetting him.

The bank is now in the hands of a receiver.

LANDLORD HALED INTO COURT ON CHARGE OF FAILURE TO GIVE HEAT TO ONE OF TENANTS

What gives evidence of being one of the most important and interesting cases to attract the attention of the local district court in recent times, was brought to light this morning when Michael M. Quealey, as lessor of the premises, and Henry J. Root, as tenant on the first day of last August.

This is the first case of this nature to confront the district court in this city, and comes under the law stating that landlords are obliged to provide proper heat, light and comfort for their tenants. In view of the marked scarcity of coal this past winter several similar cases have attracted considerable attention in Boston courts where drastic measures were employed by justices to put a stop to the procedure.

The complainant, Mr. Root, charges "that on Aug. 1, 1922, and divers other days and times in Lowell, the defendant did wilfully and intentionally fail to furnish heat when said heat was

Report Germany Has Peace Plan up Sleeve, Attracts Attention in London

Writer Says Parley to Be Begun When Berlin is Sure of Attention

LONDON, March 15 (by the Associated Press).—The information printed in the diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph to the effect that Germany has up her sleeve a peace plan that includes guarantees to France as well as international supervision of her finances, attracted considerable attention here today.

The article, based on advices, which the newspaper says are thoroughly reliable, asserts that Germany is not prepared to bring the plan into the light until she is assured that it will receive more attention than did the proposals she had ready for the London and Paris premiers' conferences.

Unofficial overtures were recently made to the British cabinet by Germany, the correspondent continues, as to whether great Britain would enter the opening wedge in peace negotiations by suggesting openly that a definite German offer would be considered in London. These advances, the article asserts, did not draw out the British authorities, and consequently

Weedless Lawns Developed
by Use of Sulphate of Ammonia and Bent Grass

KINGSTON, R. I., March 15.—The weedless lawns developed by the Rhode Island state college experiment station, have given the Youngstown, O., Country club putting greens, that are the envy of other clubs and the delight of players, according to a letter received by Burt L. Hartwell, director of the Rhode Island experiment station, from John Moreley, green keeper of the club.

The station announced several years ago its success in making a weedless lawn by use of sulphate of ammonia and bent grass.

"Last season we had over 40 golf clubs seeking information relative to our success," Mr. Moreley wrote, adding that he "did not use an ounce of grass seed on 14 of our putting greens in the last six years and this year we do not intend to use any seeds on any of our 18 putting greens. These greens do not contain over 2 per cent of clover or chickweed. I have been using pulverized charcoal on our putting greens to check the acidity caused by the continuous use of sulphate of ammonia."

He believes this to be due to the fact that during July and August we cut from six of our putting greens more grass than the average golf club cuts from their 16 greens. Since using sulphate of ammonia and pulverized charcoal, we have not used any worm excrement, and during the playing season we are not troubled with angle worms."

Mr. Moreley told of an incidental benefit from the sulphate of ammonia method which had been observed at Rhode Island state college. "For several years a few of our fairways have acted poorly on account of moss," he said. "Time did not do any good. I was afraid to use sulphate of iron because I believed it would also kill the grass, so I decided to try sulphate of ammonia. Wherever the moss was heavy, I used more sulphate of ammonia. To my surprise, it all decayed and disappeared."

PRES. LOWELL TOLD TO GO TO "L" FOR BAGGAGE

BOSTON, March 15.—President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard university returned from England on the Cunarder Andania yesterday and was confronted by vexatious delay at the pier because longshoremen refused to work during the supper hour, between 5 and 6 p. m. unless granted overtime. This was refused by the steamship officials. The liner therefore was docked by clerks, who handled the heavy hawsers as best they could.

President Lowell was among the first of the 400 passengers to step ashore and, when he was advised of the situation located one of his trunks and dragged it yeoman fashion well across the shed. A few minutes later the head of the great college sought out a customs inspector with the question:

"Where will I find my baggage?"

"What's your name?" asked the inspector.

"Lowell."

"Then go to L for your baggage," came the reply.

President Lowell glanced sharply at the inspector who now was directing another passenger. A smile overspread the educator's face as he sauntered over to the section designated by a big black "L."

Much heavy weather was experienced by the Andania on her passage from Liverpool and Queenstown, but President Lowell showed himself an admirable sailor. He was chairman of the concert last Saturday when $15 was raised for the seamen's orphan fund of Liverpool and his whimsicalities amused the audience which gathered in the ship's social hall. He was accom-

No remedy can cure all ailments of the human body, but a immense number of people suffer from aches, pains and discomforts when their real trouble is lack of iron in the blood. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it. There is one universally known tonic that has helped thousands because it contains iron like the iron in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood.

FINNISH GIRL AGAIN ORDERED DEPORTED

BOSTON, March 15.—Bertha Lamo, a Finnish girl, who came here as a stow-away on the steamship Bellingham, Washington's birthday, was again ordered deported by immigration authorities at Washington in a decision received here today. Refusing her appeal from the finding of the local board, the Washington decision denied also the application of A. Myer, friend on the Bellingham for authority to marry the girl.

LOST MILLION BY STOCK DROP, SAYS BRADY

ALBANY, March 15.—James Cox Brady, son of Anthony N. Brady, financier of New York and Albany, and with his brother, Nicholas P. Brady, executor and trustee of the $75,000,000 Anthony N. Brady estate, admitted at a surrogate's court hearing yesterday that the estate had lost nearly $1,000,000 through his failure to dispose of its stockholdings in the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company when securities began to decline.

Mr. Brady said he sold his own stock during or previous to the decline at an average of $10 a share, but that the Brady estate securities, when finally sold, brought an average of only $11. Some of them, he admitted, were sold for as low as $5 a share.

James Cox Brady and his brother, Nicholas, are named in an action brought by their sisters, Mrs. Luther Tucker, and Mrs. Francis P. Garvan, both of New York, who have objected to the 1921 accounting of the estate.

The Central Union Trust Co. of New York also is party to the action.

James Cox Brady was on the stand throughout the day. On conclusion of his examination by Mr. Kressel, the hearing was adjourned until April 9. Mr. Brady has been the only witness to testify thus far.

Mr. Brady testified that he and his brother, Nicholas, were directors of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company from 1916 to 1918. He admitted that as directors they knew of the financial condition of the B.R.T., but, he said, they had no idea that the company was headed for a receivership.

Later, however, Mr. Brady testified that he did realize that B.R.T. stock was taking a decided slump and said that he disposed of 14,939 shares held by himself. These were sold, he said, between December, 1917, and December 31, 1919, and brought $10 a share.

Stock held by the Brady estate, for which he was trustee, Mr. Brady admitted under questioning by Mr. Kressel, was held until after Dec. 31, 1919. His own holdings in the company, the witness said, then amounted to but one-sixth of a share, while the Brady estate owned 11,744 shares. These he explained, finally were sold at an average of from $5 to $11 a share.

Mr. Brady admitted that he knew in 1918 that the B.R.T. would be unable to pay dividends for at least three years, but said he did not begin to sell stock owned by the Brady estate until May 15, 1919, although the company went into the hands of a receiver on Dec. 31, 1918. The first shares sold, he said, brought $23 each.

RICKARD HAS FIRPO UNDER CONTRACT

NEW YORK, March 15.—(By the Associated Press.) The $750,000 offer reported to have been made to Jack Dempsey by Argentine promoters for a title match with Luis Angel Firpo in Buenos Aires next November, is valueless, Tex Rickard declared today. Rickard said he had Firpo under exclusive contract for a year.

"Firpo will box for no one but me for a year," Rickard declared. "and right now I see no prospect of going outside the United States. He probably will meet the winner of the Jess Willard-Floyd Johnson bout in May (and, if again successful, perhaps the other opponent before he will be ready to challenge Dempsey.)"

SMITH REGRETS LOSS OF MISS COMSTOCK

NORTHAMPTON, March 15.—President William Allan Nelson, of Smith college, in announcing at chapel today that Dean Ada Louise Comstock had accepted the presidency of Radcliffe college said that Smith could afford "to help a weaker sister." He said that the college faced a heavy loss in the departure of Miss Comstock, and in the retirement at the end of the college year of the college physician, Dr. Florence Gibson.

ACTIVITY IN FLOATING RUM-MARKET

HIGHLANDS, N. J., March 15.—(By the Associated Press.) There was considerable activity today in the floating rum market off Jersey's three mile limit.

Several swift runners put out from Highlands for the liquor carrying fleet which had increased to 15 craft—two steamers 12 two masted schooners and a sailing vessel with three masts.

Two tugs from New York were sighted today, visiting the fleet. It was assumed that they were bringing supplies. In addition, a number of motor boats were seen hobnobbing around the armada.

MAIL POUCH STOLEN AT BRATTLEBORO, VT.

BRATTLEBORO, VT., March 15.—Postmaster M. J. Moran today notified the postoffice department of the theft of a mail pouch from a truck on the platform of the Union passenger station last evening. The pouch was in a lead of mail taken to the station for division between two trains due at about the same time. The theft was not discovered until the train arrived.

The pouch was well filled, and while it did not contain much registered mail, it did contain many income tax returns and checks made out to W. W. McQueen, collector of internal revenue at Burlington. Customs inspectors are expected here today.

Congressman Rogers Ad Club Speaker

Continued.

Informal with no special reception program arranged for the Rogers visitation.

The congressman has been asked to speak on important affairs of legislation that have been engaging the attention of legislators in Washington during the past season. He will also have something to say in regard to the past and present anthracite coal situation, with references to the large shipments of anthracite to Canada that have been going on all winter.

The congressman will also give, in addition to a general review of present-day conditions in political and national affairs something about the prosperity of the country at large, the outlook for 1923-24, and American business conditions as a whole. The Advertising club members are greatly interested in the congressman's coming at this time as guest of the organization, and tonight's dinner is bound to be largely attended. President C. D. A. Grouse will preside.

In addition to the Rogers visit, the club members are to hear a report from the committee that is prepared to work hand in hand with the Lowell Guild in its charity ball entertainment, to be featured in the Auditorium, Friday evening, April 6. Tickets for the affair are $1.50 for each person. The proceeds will be devoted to district nursing and the teaching of baby hygiene.

The Advertising club members are enthusiastic about the April affair and are going to put it over the top, they say, with flying colors. Committees representing both organizations in this April event are soon to be announced.

SEA HEARING OUTLIE
WASHINGTON, March 15.—Sea hearing are outlaid at the rate of one cent per pound under the new tariff act when imported frozen or packed in ice, according to a treasury ruling today which overturned a suggestion of the collector of customs at Boston that such shipments be admitted duty free.

DRIVE AGAINST BOSTON HOTELS AND CAFES

BOSTON, March 15.—Announcement of a concerted drive by the police and the city licensing board against hotels and cafes which have been selling liquor was made today in connection with the suspension for two weeks of the license of a small hotel. It was intimated that about 30 other establishments would be closed up shortly as a result of complaints and in some cases convictions in the lower courts on charges of liquor selling.

According to the police, many places have been opened as hotels with only a few rooms available for guests and little but sandwiches for food. The police have received scores of letters from parents complaining that their boys and girls have stayed out late at night and have come home drunk. Many of these have given information where the liquor was bought.

INSIGNIA CHOSEN FOR 11TH ARMY CORPS

An interesting fact in regard to the 11th Corps, Organized Reserve, is the choice of the government for a shoulder insignia for this branch of the army.

When plans for the reserve were being made army officials decided to give the title, 11th corps, to the unit to be recruited in New England. This alone is an honor, for the 11th Corps is an old regular army unit having been organized towards the middle of the 19th century. As the unit was to be of New England, they looked around for a suitable insignia and finally chose one that is a modification of the old original New England flag designated as such by Great Britain about 1732. The insignia is shield shaped with a St. George cross in the upper left-hand corner. In the third quarter of the cross was placed a divided globe, but when the colonists took over the flag for their own use against Great Britain, they changed the globe to a pine tree, symbol of New England. The colors are blue, white, red and green and the cross and green for the pine tree.

This insignia may be worn by any member of the corps and can be obtained from the local office, 308 Hildreth building.

Real Irish shamrocks from the hills and glens of the land of Erin.

Large consignments came in due season this year for the New England trade. Last season, as some will remember, thousands of plants, properly crated, were due to arrive the week before St. Patrick's Day, but storms delayed three large ocean-going steamships, and a good many lovers of the 'old sod who hoped to have real shamrocks from Erin on the seventeenth of March were disappointed.

Mrs. Lamar Asks Decree—Says "Wolf of Wall St."

Deserted Her

PITTSFIELD, March 15.—Mrs. Marie Lamar has petitioned in the probate court here for a decree to the effect that she is living apart for justifiable cause from her husband, David Lamar, known as "The Wolf of Wall Street."

Mrs. Lamar alleges that her husband has deserted her. Lamar is being sought to serve a federal sentence. Attachments on the Lamar property in Pittsfield and Lancaster have been placed by a surety company in an effort to collect on $25,000 surety forfeited because of Lamar's disappearance.

Mrs. Lamar also has started a suit for divorce against her husband, charging cruel and abusive treatment and asking for custody of their one child.

UNEASINESS CAUSED BY DEPORTATIONS
LONDON, March 15.—(By the Associated Press.) The uneasiness that has followed last Sunday's Irish arrests in Great Britain has induced Sir Kingsley Wood, member of the house of commons for Woolwich West to draft a bill which he will introduce next Tuesday amounting the restoration of order in Ireland act. The measure proposed that in the event of future deportations under the act, of the home secretary be obliged to inform the advisory committee established by the act and that within a week this committee must consider whether the deportation is just and reasonable. The person affected would have the right to attend the hearing.

Members of parliament do not believe that the bill will have the least chance of passing the house but its introduction will give the government an opportunity to make clear its position which now is rather obscure.

National Civil Service Reform League Commends Change Ordered by Harding

WASHINGTON, March 15.—President Harding's executive order defining the preference to be given war veterans in appointment to positions under the federal government which becomes effective today is commended in a statement from the National Civil Service Reform league.

"The former construction of the veteran preference act which the civil service commission felt obliged to follow, the statement said, resulted in preferring for appointment the veteran who was barely qualified for a place on the eligible list ahead of the most competent civilian. That is, the veteran received 35 points, or as much of them as he needed, to stand at the top of the list. By this order of President Harding a reasonable credit of five points for veterans generally and of 10 points for wounded veterans is substituted for the possible 35 points which has been demoralizing the service. Thus the practical efficiency of the service is protected."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

H. F. KELTH'S THEATRE
Best of all vaudeville singers is diminutive, husky Norton, who appears at the H. F. Kelth theatre this week, and the applause which greets her every appearance is evidence of the esteem in which she and her work are held here. The songs she gives are her own, and, with Clarence Sonne at the piano, the act is especially well fitted out. O'Neill & Plunkett, who are "The Young Uns," give a specially fine comedy turn, and Holland & O'Don present an act which is different in its comedy from anything seen here thus far this season. "Poukheepie," in which Herbert Denton and Marie Walsh appear, is a human sort of laughmaker. Other acts of the week are: Rogers & Donnelly, Jahrl & George, and Zebbo-Moll & Carl.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
The Merrimack Square theatre management has arranged a program of rare excellence for the last part of the week. The feature attractions, beginning this afternoon, are "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow," an act of the ordinary dramatic creation with Thomas Melghan in the leading role, and "Missing Millions," a thrilling photoplay, with Alice Brady in the featured part.

The action of "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow" takes place in the South seas, London, India and New York, and each scene is faithfully portrayed and excellently photographed. Mr. Melghan is the hero, and he plays a highly difficult role with consummate skill. The story is that of a reckless young man who is captivated by the charms of two women and cannot choose between them. The role requires a great amount of versatility on Mr. Melghan's part, and he handles it with such ingenuity that he is certain to gain new hosts of admirers. One of the many features that commend this photoplay to the public is its excellent cast, which includes Theodore Roberts, Leatrice Joy, June Elvidge, Eva Novak, Albert Tesco, Laurence Wheel and others. It is a picture which contains in romance, adventure, love, action and intrigue. "Missing Millions," Alice Brady's first Paramount star picture, is said to be a superb romantic photoplay. Based on two of Jack Boyle's famous Boston Blackie stories, which were published in a leading magazine, Miss Brady and the role of a woman who escapes the imprisonment and death of her innocent father, in a novel and dramatic manner. David Powell heads the supporting cast.

THE STRAND

In these days of modern drama it is unusual and somewhat refreshing to see announced the opening of a screen version of Charles F. Blaney's famous play, "Only a Girl." After continued success for more than 25 years on the speaking stage, "Only a Girl" has been elevated to the realm of the silent drama. It will open a three days' engagement at the Strand, beginning with matinee today. Added to the element of mystery, comedy and fast action, which runs through the play, is a cast of stars unequalled by any other film offering of like nature. Such stars as Mae Busch, Estelle Taylor, Wallace Beery, Tully Marshall, James Morrison and others are seen in the cast. Their presence should be sufficient assurance to all of the quality of the offering. "Restless Souls," an adaptation from one of Richard Harding Davis' best fiction stories, with Earle Williams starring, is the second feature. Need more be said of this offering than the mention of the star and the author? The usual comedy and other features are included.

RIALTO THEATRE

"The Prisoner of Zenda," and "Sawok of the North," are both drawing to a close at the Rialto theatre tonight. The two attractions are among the best at the Rialto this season and were seen by large audiences at both performances yesterday. The program also carries a snappy comedy and the Rialto News Review.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

The theatregoers of Lowell are packing the Opera House at every performance this week to see the presentation of the modern comedy, "Why Men Leave Home," by the Lutzinger players. These players have become great favorites but no production thus far has elicited as much favorable comment as this has. The play is up-to-date, having just recently made a great hit in New York and during the present season, and the reason for its success is apparent, since it attacks a modern problem in an interesting way. Mary Ann Dwyer, Arthur Delord, Richardson Morgan, Marguerite Stuy, Lois Jenson and the other members of the company are seen at their best in this production and little Marguerite Morgan is making her debut as little Doris, the sunshine girl. The play is well staged. Next week, "The Bad Man."

CHEMIST FELLOWSHIP AT YALE
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Mar. 15.—Establishment of the Cheney Fellowship in organic chemistry at Yale university, for which Cheney Brothers, silk manufacturers, are to give a fund of $100,000, was announced today. The fellowship will be awarded to a graduate student who has shown special proficiency in chemistry, biochemistry, and demonstrated his ability to pursue research work. The recipient of the fellowship is to conduct research on some fundamental problem, the solution of which will advance the knowledge of the chemistry of silk and substances and processes used in the silk industry.

HAD NERVOUS INDIGESTION

COULD NOT SLEEP—LOST WEIGHT ONLY WINCARNIS HELPED HER

"Let anyone who may question the truth of your claims for Wincarnis come to me and I will soon dispel their doubts. A year ago I had a very bad spell of nervous indigestion and although my doctor did all he could for me, nothing he gave me relieved me of the dreadful attack. I lost my appetite, I could not sleep, my nerves got worse and I rapidly lost weight."

I had read about your wonderful tonic Wincarnis and decided to give it a trial. Almost immediately my appetite came back and soon I was able to get a refreshing night's sleep. My nerves grew steady, my indigestion disappeared and I began to put on flesh. In fact, I gained 8 pounds while taking Wincarnis." (Miss Helen Miller, 10 Thompson St., Philadelphia, Pa.)

ALL-ELK PROGRAM HEARD AS FAR AWAY AS NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Of particular interest to Lowell radio listeners was the All-Elk concert broadcast by WNAC, Shepherd station, which came through the air at 1:55 a. m., perhaps too late for early listeners, but heard by many, nevertheless. Donnelly's songs were in Scotch dialect, of course, and he fully lived up to his reputation as the "Hairy Leader of Elkhound." They included "Back to the Heather," "The Heather Grows," "I Think I'll Get Wed in the Summertime," and "The Sunshine of a Bonnie Lassie's Smile." Jim also sang the solo following the Elk 11 o'clock concert, given for middle western states at 2 a. m., eastern standard time. The toast was given by Joseph N. Shafer, editor and publisher of the Eastern Elk. The All-Elk program was concluded at 3:15 a. m., but WNAC continued its transcontinental test for another hour with Rhythm and player-piano record reproductions. The concert was heard as far west as Cedar Rapids, Mich., in Ansonia, Ont., and in New Orleans, from which places telegrams of acknowledgment and congratulations were received.

29 DAYS WITHOUT FOOD

Hunger Strike of Sacco Has Sapped His Strength—May Not Attend Hearing

DEDHAM, March 15.—The hunger strike of Nicola Sacco, now in his 29th day, has so far sapped his strength that he will have to be helped if he attends the hearing here tomorrow of the bills of exception taken by counsel for a jury's finding that they killed a paymaster and his guard three years ago. Sacco may decide not to attend the hearing, Dr. A. M. Worthington, the jail physician said today, his attitude in recent days having been one of expectation of death from his fast, to which he has declared himself reconciled.

Four weeks without food, drinking a gallon of water daily, has left Sacco with pains in the head and abdomen, extreme bodily weakness, and much depressed in spirit, according to the doctor. His heart action has not been affected, however, the physician said. Sacco spends his days on his cell cot, but when visited by his wife, he looks in the guardroom door, he shows no signs of tottering in his walk, Dr. Worthington remarked, but his condition is so weak that he could not go up even a short flight of stairs without assistance. To attend the hearing in the courthouse, set for tomorrow, Sacco would need help, he said.

HEAVY EARTHQUAKE RECORDED IN ITALY

ROME, March 15.—(By the Associated Press) A heavy earthquake, at a point not far distant, was recorded on the seismographs at Naples and Foggia at 6:14 and 6:55 o'clock this morning, respectively. The shock was so intense that it damaged the instruments.

A dispatch from Florence says the observatory there reported an earthquake this morning, centering in the Dalmatian zone, across the Adriatic.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—An earthquake described as of "moderate" intensity and lasting about 30 minutes was recorded early today on the seismograph at Georgetown university.

Director Tordoff of the university observatory estimated the distance of the shock from Washington at about 1600 miles, the direction believed to be south.

Beginning at 1 a. m., the disturbance continued until 1:40, reaching a maximum intensity at 1:15.

NEW INVENTION TO AID HEART

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 15.—Invention of a surgical instrument for operations upon the heart for relief of mitral stenosis, a narrowing of one of the valves of the heart, was announced yesterday at Washington university.

Surgical history reports only one such successful operation, it was stated.

The new instrument has been used successfully on animals, it was said, but has not been employed as yet on human beings.

PIERRESS STAR OF "IF WINTER COMES"

RUSSIA TO REHABILITATE HER LOST INDUSTRIES

MOSCOW, March 15.—(By the Associated Press).—Leon Trotsky, the Russian war minister, may assume a new job, that of directing the rehabilitation of Russia's big industries, if plans which are to be presented to the 12th congress of the communist party, meeting in Moscow late in March, are carried out. Trotsky, it is understood, would continue to act as director of the fighting forces of Russia, but will devote most of his time to the heavy task of whipping Russian factories into shape. He already has worked out plans to this end, and will present them to the congress.

Trotsky's ability as an organizer would long ago have been called into play in this particular job had it not been for opposition by some members of the party, who considered that the war minister would enforce military control over the workmen. It is said that in the battle of Russia, which is close down many factories which are poorly equipped or poorly managed, utilizing their machinery to strengthen the mechanical equipment of the better factories which are to be operated with larger forces to bring about a normal output.

In addition to discussing plans for industrial betterment, the party congress is expected to devise means to bring about a better feeling between the "Nepmen," as the businessmen developed by the new economic policy are called, and the actual proletarian. The "Nepmen" have no votes, but their growing prosperity has greatly alarmed some of the more rabid communists, who see in their extension the danger of a restoration of old-time conditions in Russia. Premier Lenin sounded the keynote of the conference policy in a recent statement in which he declared that the basis of the social reconstruction of Russia rests upon the collaboration of the two classes. He has proposed that about 100 of the most honest and best understanding communists be formed into a special department, authorized to inspect the working of all government institutions and industries, with the aim of ironing out any difficulties that develop in the relationships of the two classes. They are to act in collaboration with the central committee of the communist party, forming a body of perhaps 400 men whose decisions would be virtually final.

"The basis of Russia's social reconstruction rests upon the collaboration of the workmen and peasants on the one hand and the bourgeoisie on the other," Lenin said. "The bourgeoisie methods.

LOWELL SALESMEN WIN FOR MAINTENANCE OF TEXTILE FRATERNITIES TRIP TO NEW YORK BOYS' WORK AT "Y"

As a reward for the splendid showing made during the past five months by the local salesmen of the National Biscuit Co., will spend the week-end in New York as guests of the company. The men will inspect the various plants of the company there and will also take in the numerous sights in New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City.

The contest was organized by the company five months ago, its large territory being divided into districts. The Lowell district included all cities in New Hampshire and Massachusetts and at the close of the contest Lowell led all other competitors by a large margin. The Lowell men who will make the trip are Eugene Conahan, Henry Hearn, Almeric Teller, Frank Lahiff, R. J. Cole, John Craig and Edward O'Malley. They will leave tonight for Boston, whence they will board the midnight train for New York. They will return next Monday. The men will be paid their regular wages while away and all their expenses will be borne by the company.

TEMPERATURE SHOWS TENDENCY TO DROP

Temperatures were decidedly lower this morning, following a rainy cold wave that reached Lowell early last evening and kept all house-warmers busy. This morning in some sections the mercury stood only 13 above zero.

At 8 a. m. the glass registrations were nearer 20.

March appears to be bent upon continuing abnormal storminess and weather changes, and another well-developed disturbance of marked intensity is on the way to New England and Lowell. According to the official forecast, snow is due tonight, and rain may follow tomorrow with warmer temperatures coming. Winds will come from the east and southeast and may be very strong tomorrow. The storm predicted for tonight was reported as central in the southwest last evening, and moving very rapidly in a northeasterly direction.

are now being allowed a little leeway. Should serious class differences arise between these two classes, then a flash is unavoidable. But the necessary conditions for such a split do not exist in our structure, and the chief aim of the central committee should be to watch very carefully all conditions out of which a split might develop, and to warn all that in the end the fate of our republic will depend chiefly upon whether the peasant masses will follow the working classes, or unite with the "Nepmen". The clearer we have this possibility before our eyes, the better the workmen and peasants will understand it, and the better will we be able to avoid a split that would be ruinous to the soviet government.

The party congress will devote also considerable time to projects for the prevention of bribery, and to curtail the red tape which now entangles most government bureaus. Lenin in his article says that with the exception of the foreign office, virtually all of the government departments are today as they were in the old days, using the same old typical bureaucratic methods.

In conjunction with a state-wide campaign, the 13th annual "boys' day" will be observed by the local Y.M.C.A. next Saturday when various teams of boys will tour the city soliciting subscriptions for the boys' department. Robert Simpson has been chosen chairman of the day with Edward Holden, Ralph Butler and Amos Fleming as his assistants. The acting superintendents will be Olaf Myhr, Peter

Manners

Everyone must eat. Anything that has to be done three times a day, year in and year out, should be done well. Besides, it's far more pleasurable to eat in company than to eat alone. But to obtain the fullest enjoyment from breakfast, luncheon or dinner, one should be sure of his table manners. Otherwise his refreshment and conversation will suffer, and so will that of others who eat with him.

AT THE TABLE
1. Unfold the napkin only half and lay it across the knees; use it as needed without further unfolding; at the end of the meal lay it still half-folded on the table to the right of the finger bowl.

2. Use spoons to eat grapefruit and fruits served with cream, boiled eggs, puddings, jellies and soups; to stir and taste bouillon, coffee and tea, before sipping.

3. Use knives only for cutting out.

holding the food to be cut on the plate with the fork in the left hand, and cutting with the right hand.

4. Use the fork to convey solid foods to the mouth; if lettuce leaves are too large to be lifted to the mouth folded, cut them with the aid of the fork. Once the knife and fork have been picked up they should never be laid on the tablecloth again. When not in use they should be placed on the plate near the outer edge. Neither knife nor fork should be placed that rests partly on the plate and partly on the tablecloth. Should you be asked to pass your plate, pass the knife and fork with it.

5. Use the fingers to eat bread, crackers, cookies, etc. also to eat corn on the cob, French artichokes, lobster claws, shrimp, relishes such as radishes and bonbons and nuts.

Tomorrow: Etiquette when dining.

Most of us have come to believe, through bitter experience, that a wound must be painful during the process of healing. We think that pain is part of the actual re-knitting of the tissues and that until this is accomplished we must simply "grin and bear it." Such is not the case.

After the discoveries of Pasteur in 1854 scientists became aware that bacteria were almost wholly responsible for painful healing. They realized that if wounds could be thoroughly sterilized not only would the danger of infection disappear but the process of healing would become swift and painless.

Then why have we been forced to bear the ache and throb of healing wounds all these years? The answer is this: Until the discovery of the famous Carrel-Dakin solution during the World War all known antiseptics of any real germicidal power were poisonous, burning compounds. They could not be used in strong enough solution to destroy every vestige of germs that a wound might contain. The result was that infection was sure to follow a break in the skin. Infection is what is commonly called "inflammation" and all wounds unless thoroughly sterilized will become more or less inflamed.

The Carrel-Dakin solution allowed wounds to be thoroughly sterilized for the first time in the history of surgery. The relief that this brought to the afflicted wounded seemed like a miracle. Prior to the discovery of the antiseptic the war hospitals were nightmares of horror, owing to the agony produced by septic wounds. After its discovery, great, gaping holes in the flesh were healed without infection of any sort, the soldier lying peacefully in his bed without a distress.

Zonite is a stabilized and concentrated form of the Carrel-Dakin solution. It sterilizes wounds with even more certainty than the Great War antiseptic. The result is astonishing. A cut or torn finger or hand, for example, will heal with amazing rapidity if Zonite is applied to it at once after the injury. In addition to this the wound has no angry appearance whatsoever and there is no pain during the healing process.

Of more importance still is the fact that this painless healing and total lack of "inflammation" insures immunity from blood poisoning and other serious infections. When it is remembered that amputation or death may result from even the smallest wound if it is not thoroughly disinfected, the necessity for keeping the new antiseptic always at hand will be readily understood.—Adv.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN BANKRUPTCY RULES

Brand new corrective measures, tending to offset some established and shop-worn methods that have arisen in bankruptcy proceedings, and a general broadening of the powers of referees in bankruptcy matters in this jurisdiction, have just been promulgated in an order of court issued by Federal Judge Morton, to take effect April 2.

A summary of the new bankruptcy regulations has been received by Attorney Cornelius J. O'Neill, 225 Fifth street building, and Mr. O'Neill explained to The Sun in general terms today the meaning of the important changes that have been made in legal bankruptcy matters, particularly that portion of the innovations that will tend to increase the powers of a referee in bankruptcy after April 2, giving officials more authority than ever before.

Some of the important features of the new federal order are such that may change the methods of handling countless cases already listed and prevent any possible adjustments of special cases that might be featured by favoritism or "pull" on the part of those involved in settling cases under adjudication.

Attorney O'Neill said today: "The filing of involuntary petitions in bankruptcy, particularly by the method of assigned claims, is treated by the new rules exhaustively, and the filing of involuntary petitions in bankruptcy is subjected to new and better modifications. In the matter of composition offers, the present rule is amended by an additional short amendment."

"Particular stress is laid upon the increased power of referees in bankruptcy, who are not full masters in chancery. Invested with their powers, and with a fixed definite standard of rigidness, when sitting as special masters, or when engaged in filing reports. Never before has the powers of a referee been so well described and given real authority that must be obeyed."

"The new rules, while tending to expedite and facilitate the growing bankruptcy adjustments in Massachusetts, tend also to restrict the powers of anyone outside of the court, and also tend to keep the control of all matters connected with the expenses of the court, under the hands of the court or the referee."

Attorney O'Neill has received a copy of a report covering some of the features of the new bankruptcy laws and the powers of referees. Among the important changes in proceedings are the following: "It shall be the duty of referees to exercise general oversight and control of cases referred to them, and to see that cases are expeditiously dealt with and completed; and to this end referees are to be invested with all the powers of masters in chancery under the equity rules of the United States supreme court, and the rules of this court, in addition to the powers now exercised by them, and to scrutinize carefully all accounts and petitions for compensation from estates in bankruptcy, and on their own motion to allow only such amounts as seem to be reasonable, for services actually and necessarily performed, and expenses actually and reasonably incurred."

"It shall be the duty of each referee in bankruptcy on or about the first of each calendar month, to report in writing, upon all pending references to him of disputed issues of fact in bankruptcy cases, giving a brief statement of the progress of the proceedings thereon."

"A reference to a referee as a special master shall imply an order that he be paid at the rate of $7 an hour for hearings and the preparation of his report, and that the parties forthwith furnish a deposit or assurance satisfactory for such payment."

Referees and trustees are forbidden to employ counsel, accountants or auctioneers, without permission from the court or referee, who shall be granted only upon the necessity therefor being shown. Persons by whom allowances are requested from estates in bankruptcy, for services rendered, including counsel, appraisers, accountants, auctioneers, etc., shall submit fully itemized bills, and shall file an affidavit substantially in the form annexed, declaring that except as stated in said bills or affidavit, the fee in question belongs wholly to the person, firm or corporation claiming it, and is not to be divided, shared or pooled directly or indirectly with any other person or firm.

In composition cases, the claims entitled to share in the composition shall be those filed and proved within one year after adjudication, or in cases in which there is no adjudication, before the expiration of one year after the confirmation of the composition.

Other changes include providing for certain numbers of original copies of every involuntary petition in bankruptcy with the clerk of court, viz: one for the use of the clerk, one for service upon the respondent named therein, and one for the referee. There are other new clauses also that call for affixing affidavits to claims, etc., particularly in filing claims in involuntary bankruptcy proceedings when claims rest upon assignment or transfer from some other person.

Lowell attorneys interviewed today appeared to agree that the revised bankruptcy laws as promulgated by this new federal provision order, are greatly improved and strengthened in every way and assert that the bankruptcy referees, whose authority in the past have been somewhat narrowly confined and who have often been powerless in certain cases where necessity but could not be enforced, will now be armed with authority that ought to have far-reaching and beneficial effects in bankruptcy action solutions for the best interests of all parties concerned.

FOR PEACE SETTLEMENT IN THE NEAR EAST

PARIS, March 15.—The problem of a peace settlement in the Near East was put more definitely before the allies today with the arrival from Constantinople of Neville Henderson, acting British high commissioner at the Turkish city, who brought the official text of the Ankara government's counter proposals to the peace agreement submitted at Lausanne.

The American embassy has been informed that Rear Admiral Bristol has sent forward America's copy by way of Paris. It was probably brought by Mr. Henderson, who proceeded immediately to London with the British text. British and French officials are scheduled to confer this evening at the foreign office in London on the Near East situation.

20 MILES ON SNOWSHOES TO ATTEND FUNERAL

BIDDEFORD, March 15.—To reach this city in time to attend the funeral of his son, Captain Hiram Ulmer, of the Burnt Island coast guard station, was forced to travel 20 miles on snowshoes, the snow-packed roads being otherwise impassable.

Learning that his son, Leroy Ulmer, of the Popham Beach coast guard station was seriously ill, Captain Ulmer started for his bedside. Ico-blocked streams and snow-bound highways presented such obstacles that team owners refused liberal cash offers for transportation. Nothing daunted Captain Ulmer, he and a pair of snow shoes on his feet and started the trip. He encountered snow depths of 12 and 16 feet on the level. His son died before the father's arrival but the captain reached this city in time to attend the funeral here.

COUNSEL FOR FOSTER CHALLENGES JUROR

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 15.—(By the Associated Press.) Accepted by the state 12 prospective jurors to try William Z. Foster of Chicago, charged with violation of Michigan's anti-syndicalism laws today faced the defense's motion of their availability.

Frank P. Walsh, chief counsel for Foster, the first of 16 alleged radicals to be called for trial for advocating overthrowing of the government announced he would challenge one of the prospective jurors.

TALKED ON THE FIRE ALARM SYSTEM

Captain Conway of the Lowell Fire department addressed a gathering of the Civics classes at the high school was exceedingly interesting as the fire alarm system. Captain Conway brought with him an alarm box and explained just what happened in the box and in the central fire station when the box is rung in. He also explained the great cost of every false alarm turned in on one of these boxes. The lecture was exceedingly interesting as the fire alarm has been given so much publicity recently, and it was also educational, as the fire department is one of the phases of city government that is being taught to these classes.

EPWORTH LEAGUE ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

Excellent representations from each branch of the Epworth league circuit comprising the city of Lowell and surrounding towns, were present last evening at the bi-monthly meeting in the Central Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. Margaret M. Denison, vice president, presided. A chorale concert was unanimously elected president. A sunrise prayer meeting is to be held on Easter Sunday morning at 6:30 o'clock at the Sixth street reservoir. Miss Ruth O. Halford will lead the singing.

LAST DAY FOR FILING FEDERAL INCOME TAX

The money order window at the postoffice will be open until 9 o'clock for the benefit of those persons who care to file the income tax returns tonight. The deputy collectors will also be on the job until 9 o'clock tonight for this is the last opportunity that residents of this city will have to file their income tax returns without being liable to a severe penalty.

Beginning shortly, the deputy collectors will start in on the work of checking up delinquents who have failed to file returns when they should have, and just as soon as a number of such cases are checked up the delinquent parties will be brought into court for punishment.

HIGHLAND CHURCH BROTHERHOOD. Rev. Joseph B. Kennedy, pastor of the Highland church at 31 Merrimack street, will be the speaker at the March meeting of the Highland Congregational Brotherhood, to be held in the church vestry next Monday evening at 7:30. The address, "A Cape Cod supper will be served and a short business meeting will be held. The Brotherhood is planning to hold a ladies' night next month.

WILLIAM H. HAMILTON, valued employee of the Federal Civil Service Bureau, Washington, says he would not be without Tanlac, even if it cost ten dollars a bottle.

"Tanlac put me on my feet and kept me on the job, and even if it cost ten dollars a bottle I wouldn't be without it," declared Wm. H. Hamilton, 1912 1/2 st., Washington, D. C., well known special policeman at the Civil Service building.

"Stomach trouble and a run down condition caused me terrible suffering several years. After eating I bloated with gas till I had to gasp for breath, and pains in my back added to my misery. I couldn't sleep and was so weak and worn out I thought I was about done for."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Adv.

"PORK PIE" HATS AND POKE BONNETS, BACK

LONDON, March 15.—The "pork pie" hats and poke bonnets of the mid-Victorian period will again be worn in London, the trade authorities say.

"The hint that the crinoline and the bustle are to be worn this season has been responsible for the designing of many new hats which are completely different from the shapes of last season," said the designer of a leading West End hatter's establishment.

"Women are to wear hats this season such as they wore in the mid-Victorian days. Every hat is different. Many have flowers on them and others have elaborate old-fashioned ribbon work."

The fashion has not been confined to London, for many of the French shops of Piccadilly are displaying Paris models designed after styles of the same period.

COUSIN OF LATE SEN. CRANE DROPS DEAD

PITTSFIELD, March 15.—Frederick A. Crane, 55, died suddenly of heart trouble this morning at Elmstone farm, his home, in Dalton. He was a cousin of the late United States Senator W. Murray Crane. Mr. Crane, who formerly was in the paper making business, had resided for some years in a stock farm in Dalton.

Quickly Heals Sores and Conquers Piles

Also Stops Itching of Eczema Almost Immediately

"Peterson's Ointment Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—I want to tell you how much I do love Peterson's ointment for the good it has done me. My sore was on my left leg, was 4 1/2 inches by 2 1/2 inches wide—in all healed up beautifully now and then, too, it was so something on such a raw sore. I can't say enough praise for the good it has done me and will say a good word in your sales favor." Very truly yours, Miss Kate Kull, Sigel, Ill.

"I'd rather get a better like that," says Peterson of Buffalo, "than have John D. Rockefeller give me a thousand dollars. It does me a lot of good to be able to be of use to my fellow man."

"For years I have been suffering through drugists a large box of Peterson's Ointment for Eczema. The healing power in this ointment is marvelous. Eczema goes in a few days. Old sores heal up like magic; piles that other remedies had not been able to even relieve are speedily conquered."

It stops itching in minutes and for sores and burns it simply wonderful. Adv.

Spring Fashion Exhibit

CHERRY & WEBB CO.'S Spring Opening—for many years—has been one of the important events of their business, as at this time every department shows the newest styles in the newest fabrics. This year, the return of Spring is heralded by fabrics of unprecedented beauty and variety, and styles charming and rich in their exquisite simplicity—the keynote of the season. This year, instead of spending hundreds of dollars on fancy frills, we inaugurate the Spring Season with a simple, unpretentious showing, in all depths, of the most attractive garments it has ever been our good fortune to show. The savings incidental to the simplicity of this opening will be offered to our clientele in the form of a 10% reduction on all new Spring garments, excepting—of course—the already greatly reduced Winter stocks. This reduction prevails only on Opening Days, Friday and Saturday.

SUITS The silhouette of classic slowness refuses to be displaced and is exemplified in the New Spring Suits for women and misses. Soft, wrappy lines, so becoming to most women, have taken the place of the severely tailored styles. The wide, flaring sleeves, the long roll collar and the low side fastening—all add a hitherto unobtainable grace and richness to suits. Our collection is so varied as to make selection almost unlimited and displays many copies of models from the best European establishments.

quently Germany is reluctant to disclose her hand.

The writer declares that the German industrialists are prepared to contribute a material guarantee. He learns that Germany is ready to accept an international financial control to an important extent and that she is willing to be a party to an international guarantee of the French frontiers as established by the peace treaty.

GERMANY TO PRODUCE
SETTLEMENT PLAN

LONDON, March 15.—(By the Associated Press) Germany is about to make a declaration that she is willing and ready to produce a plan for the final settlement of the reparations question, provided she can rely on the plan receiving the attention and consideration of the allied governments, says the Daily Telegraph's diplomatic correspondent, upon whose information the Daily Telegraph in an editorial says the fullest reliance may be placed. According to the correspondent, the plan, which involves a material guarantee by the German industrialists will not be disclosed until the German government is assured that it will not be brushed aside without serious examination, as happened to Karl Bergmann's proposals in London in December and in Paris, in January.

Unofficial or semi-official envoys from Berlin, says the correspondent, recently caused inquiries to be made of the British cabinet whether the cabinet would not take the lead by suggesting that a converted offer from Germany would be welcomed in London, but that the British statesmen were reluctant to commit themselves.

This attitude of reserve, says the writer, disappointed not only the German government, but other governments, who had been looking to Great Britain for the lead. The correspondent gathers that Germany is fully prepared to accept far-reaching measures of international control of her finances and to participate in some international guarantee to France and respecting France's treaty frontiers.

According to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Baron von Rosenberg, minister of foreign affairs, intends to speak in the Reichstag, Tuesday, when some of the people expect a pronouncement showing that Germany has a constructive policy on reparations which would lead to a settlement of the Ruhr situation.

THE MUMMY CASE IN ITS TRUE LIGHT

VON HINDENBURG
MENACE TO PEACE

Garland W. Powell Warns American Legion Against German Propaganda

Sees Revolution for Restoration of Prussian Monarchy, With Hohenzollerns

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 15.—A revolution for the restoration of the Prussian monarchy, including the reinstatement of the Hohenzollerns in Germany under von Hindenburg's leadership, is the opinion of Garland W. Powell, national director of the Americanism commission of the American Legion, who yesterday issued a warning to all American legions of the danger to be on guard against German propaganda.

"The picture of von Hindenburg is reappearing in the American papers as it did in 1914," Mr. Powell stated. "He has been selected by the German mon-archist party to replace the Kaiser in the Kaiser style and bring about a coup d'etat to restore the old regime.
He has opened his campaign by calling for war with France, in his address to the German Veterans' league in Hanover Tuesday. Hindenburg is still the hero of Germany and his reappearance is a menace to the peace of the world."

"The American people do not realize," said Mr. Powell, "that Germany can afford to spend millions for propaganda in America while refusing to pay reparations in France and the allies on the plea of poverty."
"Germany today is in a better position for war than the world realizes,"
Mr. Powell declared.

"This German propaganda is being exerted to bring the American people to believe otherwise. The Americanism commission of the legion has information of the course of German propaganda efforts in this country for the last year. There are 30,000 Americans buried in France, who feel breaking the Hindenburg line in 1918.

The American people will not forget this in reading Hindenburg's new threat of war."

KISSES HIS FATHER
AFTER SHOOTING HIM

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., March 15.—
Charles Mitchell, a widely known business man, was shot and killed by his son, Oscar Mitchell, a contractor, in the streets here yesterday.

When the father fell with four bullets in his body, the son dropped to his knees, kissed the dying man's forehead and wept.

More than 100 citizens accompanied the son to jail and signed his bond of $500.

Trouble between father and son developed last month when the older Mitchell was released from jail, after serving a sentence for possessing moonshine. According to the authorities, the father accused the son of "turning me up."

Oscar declared he fired when his father made a motion as if to draw a pistol.

HOUSE PASSES GOV. IRISH FREE STATE HAS MANY BIG COX'S COAL BILL PROBLEMS AHEAD IN FINANC-ING GOVERNMENT

BOSTON, March 15.—Opposition to Gov. Cox's bill to provide drastic punishment for the fraudulent sale of fuel could not prevent the Massachusetts house of representatives yesterday from passing the measure by a vote of 77 to 46.
A rollcall was sought, but was refused.

Debate, which began Tuesday evening when the house convened, continued yesterday afternoon. Mr. Sawyer of Ware, Mr. Webster of Boxford, Mr.
Standish of Stoneham and Mr. Cooksey of Marblehead favored the bill.

Mr. Mitchell of Hull contended that the bill is the only one which can pass legislation to meet the situation.
Mr. McCarthy of Rockland, in his mild speech, took a similar position.
Mr. Grayson of Whitman, Mr. Casey of Framingham and Mr. Curtis of Haverhill also opposed the bill.

Recognition of Boston closed for the bill.

The house refused to substitute for an adverse committee report a resolve for an investigation by the state department of public works the cost of dredging the Lynn flats.

minors shall not be allowed to make application for voluntary admission to

Revenue This Far Satisfactory—Doles
Being Paid to Unemployed—Damage Claims of $200,000,000 For Destruction of Property by Rebels—Hope of Early Settlement is Gaining Ground

How will St. Patrick's day find Ireland? This question is answered for Sun readers by Milton Bronner, sent to Ireland by the N. E. A. to investigate conditions.

By MILTON BRONNER
N. E. A. Staff Correspondent

DUBLIN, March 15.—The young Irish Free State, once it has put down rebellion, will have enough other serious problems on its hands. In the main they are the same problems that all Europe is tackling.

Finance. Many readings about fighting, doubtless think the government has a hard time settling money.
As a matter of fact, it has done splendidly.

Between April 1 of last year and the 10th of February this year—the date of the last report issued—the government collected nearly $100,000,000. Of this, more than $15,000,000 was from income taxes, $50,000,000 from tobacco, liquor and similar taxes. On February 10 there was a balance of $3,400,000 in the treasury.

However, the government is facing a deficit, for the reason that it is maintaining an army of 50,000 men.
Just as soon as peace is secured, this army will be greatly reduced. Meanwhile money needed to overcome this deficit will in all probability be raised by an internal loan.

Unemployment. The last report on unemployment in the Free State showed 25,000 out of work, as compared with 35,000 in the same period last year. Of these, 30,000 were men and 2000 were women.

Dublin, the metropolis, has the large-est number, 11,154; Cork has 6510; Limerick 3593; Waterford 1577 and Wexford 1171.

Many of these are drawing unemployment doles from the government, similar to the practice in England.

Strikes. Recently more than 35 thousand employees who refused to accept big cuts in wages. The dockers in Cork just recently came out on strike.
Trouble is looming again in the railway world because some of the roads are unwilling at present to agree to wage adjustment boards.

In many isolated country districts, where their wage and hour demands are not exceeded, farm laborers have adopted the policy of burning corn and hay stacks.

Property destruction. It is estimated that upward of $200,000,000 worth of property has been destroyed and the losses will look to the state to reimburse them. The state, in turn, will have to look to the taxpayers to raise the money. Therefore, Dail Eireann at present is considering a bill to limit the responsibility of the state.

The burnings have been a fertile source of fraud.

As one cabinet minister humorously said to me, every time a newspaper clipping pinned to a wall is burned, the state is pounced on with a claim for the destruction of an "old master."

The irregulars at first confined themselves to blowing up bridges and destroying turnpikes. Next they attacked railway property. Latterly they have burned down property belonging to Free State officers, members of the Dail, prominent government supporters or their near relatives.

As a result all Ireland is studded with wreckage. The people in some districts live in a state of terror, and are afraid to utter a word for fear of being either side last they should in-cure the enmity of the republicans and get shot or be arrested by the officers of the ranks of the irregulars say they are using the methods which their leaders taught them to use against the British in the days of the Black and Tans; but now they are attacking their own countrymen, not the British;
and the Free State officials are deeply grieved that to save Ireland from destruction they have to use severe methods which result in executions. There is a growing hope, however, that all this trouble will soon give way to some form of settlement.
For this the people are devoutly hoping and praying.

interview with Governor General Healy.

FELT FINE AFTER TONIC TREATMENT

Pawtucket Woman Tells How She Recovered Her Strength, Weight and Health

Often recovery after a fever, or attack of grip is delayed and the patient drags along without strength or energy for months after the symptoms of the acute disease have disappeared. In such cases there is usually an anemic condition. The blood, which must carry new vitality to every part of the system, is not able to perform its function. Before health and strength can be restored the blood must be built up.

Mrs. J. A. Ireland, of No. 405 West avenue, Pawtucket, R. I., did not recover her strength after the birth of her second child, she says.

"I was all run down and tired out.
I did not have any appetite to speak of, my color was gone and I was reduced in weight and strength. At times
I would be extremely nervous and it affected my rest so that I did not sleep well."

"Through reading of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the paper I was led to try them and after taking the third box I could see that they were helping me. I soon grew stronger and better in every way and I kept on until I had taken seven boxes. I felt fine then and I shall take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills whenever I need a tonic again."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold in any condition caused by thin blood or in cases where recovery is retarded because the blood is thin. Headaches and backaches vanish like magic when the blood is built up and many other troublesome symptoms are also banished when rich red blood courses through the body.

A valuable booklet, "Building Up the Blood," will be sent free upon request.
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 60 cents per box, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.—Adv.

TWO STRAIGHT FOR BROADWAYS

Acre Quintet Made it Two in Row Over Y. M. C. I. in Championship Series

Keyes and O'Connor Star in 22 to 18 Victory—Good Crowd on Hand

The Broadways made it two in a row in their basketball championship series with the Y.M.C.I. by winning last night's game at the Crescent rink by the score of 22 to 18.

The Broadways entered the game handicapped by the absence of Joe Foley, but the other members realizing the situation, resolved to fight as never before to hold their opponents in check. The Y.M.C.I. had the edge on the Acre crew in the early stages of play, but a whirlwind attack launched in the closing few moments of the second session and continued in the final period gave the Broadways the victory and a big advantage in the series to settle the city championship.

The passing and shooting of the Acre quintet had the Institute boys bewildered at times. All members of the team fitted into the combination play perfectly and the superior team work of the Broadways was mainly responsible for the victory.

The Y.M.C.I. put up a good battle, but they were off on their shooting, particularly in the closing minutes of the game. Many times they would work the ball down the floor, after some skillful maneuvering, only to have the man receiving the last pass fail in his attempt to score.

Many of the points scored by both teams were due to fouls. Arthur Ryan, the well known Acre player, was particularly active in this respect, and he gave a most creditable exhibition. He was on the job every minute and he decorated and decorated the Acre boys.

His activity was an important bearing on the final score. The Y.M.C.I. team picked up eight points on fouls, while the Broadways gathered four points because of infractions of the rules by their opponents.

The superiority of the Broadways in the final period was emphatically emphasized by the fact that the Y.M.C.I. scored but five baskets from the floor, while the winning aggregation from the foul line scored four points.

The Y.M.C.I. got away to a fine start with Keyes and McGowan scoring early and often. McGowan scored five points in the opening game, but he failed to break into the scoring column. He worked hard, but he was well covered by Twilght.

NO N. E. LEAGUE THIS YEAR

Proposal to Revive Organization Has Been Abandoned
by Steve Flanagan

Strength of Twilight Baseball,
Lack of Grounds, Etc.,
Detract From Success

LAWRENCE, March 15.—The proposal to revive the New England Baseball League has been abandoned for this year. This announcement was made today by Stephen D. Flanagan, of this city, who was the prime mover in the negotiations for an eight club circuit. The strength of Twilight baseball organizations, lack of grounds in some cities and local conditions in others, combined to detract from probable success. Steve Flanagan, president of the league, indicated that steps would be taken looking to league organization for the season of 1924.

CASES OF ROSSMAN AND YOUNG ARE UNIQUE

Recent press dispatches carried the announcement of the unconditional release of Ralph "Pop" Young by the Philadelphia Athletics. And though, no doubt, passes another well known player from out the realm of major league baseball.

The going of Young marks the passing of one of the smartest men in the game. For Young was an intelligent player, played of years as a first baseman, and in his prime was considered one of the best second sackers in the majors.

Young was a sterling fielder, being sure on ground balls and could score on ground balls. He was also especially adept in grabbing short outs. He was as well as a fast runner, coming into the base with the speed of a bat. He was never a hard man to pitch to, drawing many especially with the Detroit Tigers. He brought in many runs by his ability to "wait 'em out."

But Young had a flaw. He developed a bad habit of throwing a ball at the stonewall for Detroit. His arm suddenly went wrong, and try as he might he couldn't make the short toss to first base with any degree of accuracy. Time after time he would make a sensational stop only to follow it with a weird throw to the catcher. This threw the catcher off, and the pitcher would get "fired" on what should have been certain outs. Young's trouble was mental, as he could throw with great speed, but no accuracy.

Young was consequently benched at various intervals with the thought that he would never get back into the game, and that he would regain confidence in it. But the same trouble would always show up again. Detroit was losing to the Athletics. For a time Young played fine ball for the Athletics. It seemed as if the kindly words of Connie Mack had eased the mental burden that had weighed on Young's career. After a few months it returned and now his release by Mack sounds his knell as a major leaguer.

Young's case is without doubt one of the oddest in the history of the game, though it has somewhat of a parallel in that of Claude Rossman, once of Detroit and now in the hands of the Athletics.

Rossman, like Young, lacked confidence in his throwing ability, but for quite a while hung on because the breaking down of his confidence in his throwing ability.

Finally, however, a certain player in the American league, who had once been a teammate of Rossman's in the Athletics, told him that he was not a good thrower. And it wasn't long before the entire club was aware of Rossman's inability to throw.

From then on, whenever players tried to play with Rossman, they were told that he was not a good thrower. And Rossman was, as the case with Young, was shortly run out of the majors—simply because he couldn't throw.

MOST IMPORTANT ABOUT IN FLAHERTY'S CAREER

Martin Flaherty, Jr., who is to meet George Bush of Brooklyn, N. Y., in the main bout of the Moody club show at the Crescent rink tonight looks upon the impending bout as the most important of his career.

Much depends on the outcome. In fact more is at stake than ever before in Flaherty's career. If he wins he has been promised a bout in Madison square garden, New York. This is a big incentive, one that is the ambition of all boxers to attain. And in addition to having the opportunity of reaching the goal, Young Flaherty has a chance to regard tonight's bout with importance.

It will mark his first ring engagement since his memorable bout with Johnny Avila on New Year's day. The fight was fought on one of the seasons' best. For nine and one half rounds Flaherty beat his opponent, showing him with vicious blows that he was understood. The heavy hitting Avila let go a terrific swing that not only nullified all the previous good work of Flaherty, but sent him down to his first and only defeat since entering the ranks of the profession.

Martin took a long rest after the bout, and his experience, being carefully handled by his father, and today according to trainer and boxer, the time has come for a "come back" for the young fighter. Flaherty is now a completely interrupted.

Owing to the fact that Kid Lewis of Lawrence met with an injury while training his bout with Young Flaherty, the bout was postponed. In place of the younger Lewis match the club has secured Jack Dillon, the popular B. C. student from New York to meet Young Flaherty on Saturday night. The bout is an eight-round number. There will also be two other eight-round bouts.

Last night at a dinner at Brown's camp, Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, gave the players something to think about and made an especial plea that they should never do anything to destroy the confidence placed in them by American boys.

A home run drive to deep center by Norman McMillan and another by Frank O'Donoghue in the third inning, featured the opening game between regular and scrub teams at the Hot Springs, Ark., camp of the Red Sox. The arrangement of the first inning of the game for the second base would be between Shanks and Harris, with Mitchell and Fowler rivals for shortstop.

AMATEUR BOXING AMHERST, March 15.—Amateur boxing bouts today contained nine team matches. The first follows:

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Old time fops and present day followers of roller polo are still talking of the great Lowell-New Bedford series which was played last evening. The Lowell team with Lowell emerging on top, three games to one. Truly, it was a wonderful series of contests, the Lowell team with Lowell emerging on top, three games to one.

The games were all well played and highly fought, with all one-sided. Two games were won by Lowell, by narrow margins, the first by one point in overtime and the second by two goals in the regulation 30 minutes of play. The third went to New Bedford, by the hairline advantage of a point.

Hence it cannot be said that these three games were bitter struggles. The last game had all the earmarks of a repetition of the previous encounters. Lowell was the aggressor, and the Lowell team with Lowell emerging on top, three games to one.

The victorious outcome gives Lowell the chance it has been looking for all season, a chance to take on Worcester. The latter team was leading the Lowell Roller Polo league, when the season was prematurely ended. It was not in a position to continue. Lowell and Providence were also in the running. Lowell was the aggressor, and the Lowell team with Lowell emerging on top, three games to one.

Stanley Stasiak, the Polish giant wrestler, who is to appear in Lowell next Monday night, is training hard for the bout. Stasiak appeared here a few weeks ago and his work made a deep impression upon those who saw him in action. He is still a young man, but he has been meeting and defeating some of the best grapplers in the country. His ultimate goal is a match with Sam Zerkow, the champion of the Polish-American championship and many feel that when the pair meet the youthful Stasiak will be the victor.

WORLD'S 18.2 BALL LINE BILLIARD CHAMP RETAINS TITLE IN MATCH WITH SCHAEFER

Hoppe Proves He is Still Invincible Master of Ivories
in Presence of 1500

NEW YORK, March 15.—This cue of Willie Hoppe still is a magic wand; his victory still is the invincible master of the ivories. Young Jack Schaefer, son of the old wizard, known today.

Hoppe completed his defense of his 18.2 ball line billiard world's championship title last night, amassing 1500 points in the three blocks of his challenge match while Young Jack Schaefer was totaling 1341. The defender made the 500 he needed while his opponent was collecting 347.

Vivid with drama and color from the first block of the match on Monday night and repeated throughout with display of emotion and temperament, the three-day tournament came to a finish that swept the crowd from their seats into shouts of acclaim.

It was a sure defeat for the son of the man from whom Hoppe, then the world's champion, had won the title at the end of the first block he had the championship within his grasp; he led, 500 to 271. The next night he faltered more coming to the end of his game and lost his lead; Hoppe made 723 points to his 434.

Hoppe came to the table last night with a lead of 185. He never lost the ball in front position to continue his game. He was in his best stroke. He counted 43 before he missed an easy one-cushion draw.

Not until his 61th turn at the table did Schaefer muster himself. Then he reeled off the longest run of the tournament, clicking 244 points with an amazing display of cueing and control. He scored 223 points on the first night Schaefer had fallen to the rear 264 points. His masterful play brought him within 20 points of the champion.

Hoppe had just run 186. He met the new challenge, he responded with a collection of 185. He never lost the ball in front position to continue his game. He was in his best stroke. He counted 43 before he missed an easy one-cushion draw.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

BUCKAROOS RECALL WILD WEST DAYS

By Special Correspondent
SALINAS, Calif., March 15.—Well, pard, the old wild west ain't gone yet. They can give 'em airplanes and movies and radio, but that don't mean the boys has forgot how to rustle a little cattle now an' then.

Mary, they ain't quite as slick as they used to be. They're a little outa practice. If they wasn't, the Radcliffe boys and Al Stone wouldn't of got corralled like they did.

You've heard about it, ain't you? Well, the Radcliffe boys and Al Stone is the toughest ridin', hardest ridin' buckaroo on any man's range. Wasn't it Al Stone, stuck on that wild cayuse, fryin' Pan, when every-one else was takin' dust?

taken half the rodeo medals in the west? I'm tellin' you!

And then they ups and arrears 'em, for a quiet little cattle rustlin'!

Alkali Ike's Fault

An' all because of that loud-mouthed Alkali Ike, a ornery "chuck-line rider." Wal, a chuck-line has the same social standin' as a sheep-herder. He rides from ranch to ranch feedin' on the bounty of the natives.

Wal, Alkali Ike gets a hold of some hooties. An' he goes round blawin' how he was invited in on a little brandin' party over to Stone's ranch. The sheriff gets hold of Ike and the spurs the beans. He says the boys got some cattle from the Miller and Luzz ranch and got a little careless with the branding irons.

He said they doctor'd up the "double box" brand and turned it into a "double box arrow."

Wal, the sheriff grabbed the Radcliffe boys, Nick and Bill.

Nick had sat in a little poker session when the news was runnin' against him and got hard up.

Anyhow the Radcliffe boys coughed up and, they say, mixed Al in it. The

Let Al Go

So the first jury let Al go, even with Ike's story and the Radcliffe boys. They almost gave him a medal, too. They've all seen him ride and I feel sorry for the poor district attorney what's got to do his duty and prosecute.

The bird I feels sorry for most is Alkali Ike. They had to put him in jail to keep him sober up to go on the stand. But wait 'til that ornery chuck-line goes out again to get handouts. Say, he'll be livin' on lizards' wings and angleworms the rest of his life.

That's all they's to the story, pard, but don't let 'em tell you the west is gone.

BERLIN REJECTS GOWNS CHINESE ARMY DIVISION ADOPTS CHRISTIAN FAITH

BERLIN, March 15.—Frieda and Gretchen are to have no more Paris gowns. There are to be no more smart little hats brought to Germany from the fashionable millinery shops on the Place Vendôme and the Rue de la Paix.

These articles are not permitted to cross the German boundary since the French invasion of the Ruhr, and the leaders of the German fashion industry have instructed their buyers that French models are not to be bought either directly or indirectly.

High prices in France had prevented German firms from buying many models. Consequently, the importations of such fashions from France had been inconsiderable as compared to pre-war times. But Berlin modistes were slowly resuming their Paris trips and buying limited quantities of late creations, when the Ruhr trouble came along and brought the general boycott against articles made in France.

Harro Dröhl, managing director of one of Berlin's greatest fashion shops, told the correspondent of The Associated Press that this latest prohibition will make little difference to Berlin designers, as they have not relied directly on Paris for their styles since the beginning of the war and have, to a great extent, become creators of their own models.

"Of course, many of our ideas come from Paris. It is foolish to deny that Paris leads in the creation of models," declared the baron. "But Germany has learned to develop Parisian suggestions and adapt them. In many cases they are greatly modified, as Parisian designs are often too extreme for our trade. The prohibition against the importation of French goods will affect modistes and milliners only in two lines, silk and flowers. It is difficult to replace certain French silks and flowers."

Vienne and Berlin have been working together in the development of modes since the beginning of the World war. Because of the low exchange they have been successful in developing a considerable trade for model gowns in the Scandinavian countries, the Balkans and Central Europe. American and French fashion magazines have been the source of many ideas for the German and Austrian fashion creators. They also send their representatives to the great watering places on the Riviera and have little difficulty in keeping up with the latest French ideas.

In Berlin virtually all French and Belgian nationalities occupying apartments or rooms are being dispossessed. They were barred in January from all hotels. There are about 3000 French and 1000 Belgians resident in the city. In the stores merchants and clerks have no time for Frenchmen and will not knowingly serve them. Women who are French are even more bitter against the French than men and tell great pains to make sure their customers are not their most hated enemies.

Frenchmen are brusquely ordered out of business houses as soon as their nationality becomes known. Cafes and bars refuse to serve them. Barber shops have hung up the sign "No Frenchmen admitted," and taxicabs turn down everyone with a French accent.

HELIUM GAS MAY NOW BE LIQUIFIED

TORONTO, Ont., March 15.—Professor John C. McClellan, of the University of Toronto, has discovered a process for liquifying helium gas. The new discovery, it is said, will open up big possibilities for the gas in the industrial field.

Helium is a non-combustible gas which is nearly as light as hydrogen gas and can be used as a substitute for it. Its principal use up to the present time has been as a filling for dirigible balloons and other lighter than air craft, because of its non-inflammability. Many air disasters due to the ignition of gas bags could have been avoided, it is said, if helium gas had been used.

In its new liquified state helium will be particularly valuable in refrigeration, since its temperature reaches within one degree of absolute zero. This property of extreme temperature will also make the liquified gas especially useful in scientific research, according to Professor McClellan.

The value of helium as a commercial product is enhanced by its comparative scarcity. The United States and Canada are the only countries in which it is found. During the war the United States took steps to extract and conserve its helium gas, and since the war it has prohibited its export from the country. Canada's source of helium is located at Bow Island, near Calgary, Alta. This field is said to be the largest in existence.

ELMAN TALKS OF AMERICAN GIRLS

Mischa Elman, the great Russian violinist, who will appear tomorrow night at the Memorial Auditorium, has not escaped the romanticisms of the public and every little while a rumor is spread about that he is engaged to this or that popular young musician.

The young violinist is coming to a stand, he says, "where he absolutely hates romance. I am young and all that," he answered an interviewer, "and I love your American women, please do not say that I am engaged when I talk to you. You must know it is very difficult for me to resist that great pleasure; in fact," said Elman, "I can resist anything but temptation." Sometimes I wish I were just one of your college boys who spends his time between basketball and girls. Why is it because I happen to play the violin well, everybody takes an interest in my affairs of the heart? Please tell your readers that I am just as human as anybody else and that a girl appeals to me as much—but do not make me out as being engaged and having a romance every time I show an interest in a girl.

BIG CORPORATION TO CONDUCT BOXING

NEW YORK, March 15.—A $150,000 corporation has been formed to conduct boxing bouts at the Polo grounds, home of the New York Giants, and to be controlled largely by directors of the ball club. It was announced last night by Tom O'Rourke, boxing promoter. He will be matchmaker of the new organization.

A $25,000 purse has been offered to Luis Angel Firpo for a match between him and Jim Herman, of Omaha, Neb., on June 2.

CHICAGO, March 15.—The eleventh division of the Chinese army, called by some "the Chinese Ironsides," commanded by Major General Feng Yu Hsiang, known as "the Cromwell of China," has become solidly Christian, according to a cablegram received today by the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The cablegram, which was from the Rev. Edward Kingsley Lowry, a returned missionary in China residing in Peking, told of the conversion of 4000 soldiers of the eleventh division, with General Feng assisting at the ceremony. According to the board of foreign missions, there were only about this number of soldiers remaining in General Feng's division who were not Christians so the board infers that this completes the personnel of this fighting group of China.

It was General Feng and his 11th division which swept down from Shensi province to the relief of Peking, then being defended by General Wu Peifu in the fighting of last summer. General Feng threw his men into the path of the victorious Manchurians and hurled them back in a defeat, which eventually resulted in rout. At that time the Christian soldiers were among the ranks of their leader. They advanced to the fray singing Christian hymns. This division is the only one in the Chinese army in which there is definite welfare work and vocational training for the men, all of which is due to the constructive activity of their leader, the board states.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR

Perryburg, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my sides all the time. I can't remember just how long I suffered, but it was for some time. One day I was talking with a lady I met on a car, and I told her how I was feeling and she said she had been just like I was with pains and nervous troubles, and she took the Vegetable Compound, and it cured her. So then I went and got some, and I certainly recommend it for it is good. Whenever I see any woman who is sick I try to get her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ada Frick, Route 3, Perryburg, Ohio.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial?

Can Linoleum Floors Help the Merchant Sell Goods?

THE floor of a store can be made as much a selling asset as the fixtures in which goods are displayed. People like to buy in a clean, attractive place.

But when business floors are hard to keep clean, and expensive to keep new-looking, they are seldom a source of pride. If the floor is linoleum, it can be cleaned thoroughly in a remarkably short time, and an occasional waxing will actually mellow its color and improve its looks.

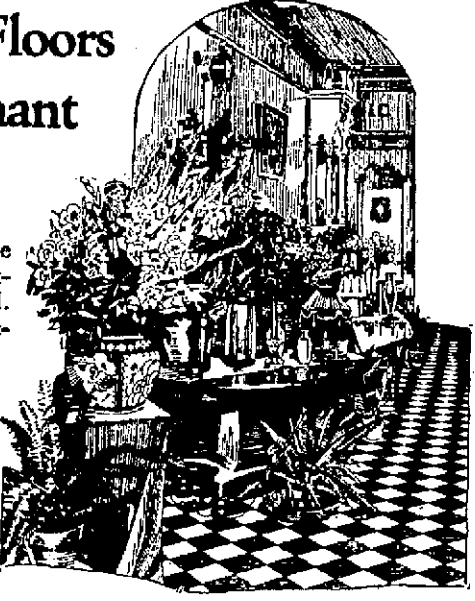

Besides, the tough, durable surface of linoleum is smooth and non-absorbent. Things dropped on it do not stick to it or stain it. It does not crack or splinter.

Low upkeep cost

The economy of maintaining the good appearance of such a floor has induced thousands of retail stores to install floors of Armstrong's Linoleum.

Large stores and business offices have bought Armstrong's Linoleum as a result of figuring out the saving. Smaller stores have bought it on the strength of observing its use in other places and from recommendations received from men in similar lines of business.

What linoleum is

Linoleum is a mixture of powdered cork and oxidized linseed oil, pressed on burlap. It takes its name from linus, flax, and oleum, oil. These substances blend together into a material that is remarkable for its toughness, durability, and resilience.

Linoleum permanently cemented in place requires no stretching or retrimming. Such a floor is smooth and light

DEATH REVEALS UNUSUAL LIFE

Passing of David Wren, Bookman, Brings Out
Story of Interest

Local Attorney, Fast Friend, Searching for Wife and Daughter

"Mrs. David Wren or Miss Wren, wife of David Wren, formerly of Lowell, Mass., at once with James H. Carmichael, lawyer, Lowell, Mass."

Anxious to locate two women, if they be alive, who are entitled to a small estate left by David Wren of Lowell, proprietor of a little bookshop at 18
Pearl street, Attorney James H. Carmichael is today hoping that the above notice he has inserted in the advertising columns of several newspapers, will bear fruit.

Back of the tiny announcement made by the Lowell lawyer, is a touching story in many respects—a story of a family drama that was broken up by the separation of a man and his wife and the complete disappearance of both mother and daughter, who never afterward made known to the husband and father their place of living.

The romance that was shattered, left its mark upon the Lowell man who died suddenly of heart failure last Monday night in the offices of James H. Carmichael while paying a visit to the attorney, who had been his warm friend for several years. Mr. Carmichael was not present when death took David Wren away from his old haunts in Lowell and the cheery small circle of devoted friends that he had made up easily since his arrival in this city some years ago to open a little book mart on Pearl street.

The news of Mr. Wren's death was a severe blow to Atty. Carmichael. Tenderly the body of his friend was removed to the Wren home and the funeral services held. Not many were present in those who followed the body of the bookman to the burial tomb, where it rests until interment follows early this spring. But of those who learned of David Wren's passing, none in Lowell more sincerely mourned the bookkeeper's passing.

David Wren was a man of some 70 years, well educated, a great reader of good books, veteran of the Boer war and a man who had traveled the world over. He was born in County Kerry and came to America with his mother, who was a widow. He was expert at almost anything he put his hands to, as the saying goes. But his love for wandering over the face of the earth allowed him no resting place worthy of long staying at any great length of time.

When the Boer war broke out, Wren's fighting spirit was up and, believing England was intent upon crushing the valiant spirits who were fighting under Kruger for full independence, sailed away and joined the Boer armies. He fought with them until the end and was proud of his deeds.

Returning to America, he became interested in fraternal work and societies, also gymnasium and school work. In his travels he read many books and bought many to keep and read over again and again.

It is known of his marriage and later life before he came to Lowell several years ago. He had parted from wife and daughter before coming here, however, and would say little about it, even to Atty. Carmichael, for whom he formed a fond attachment and often visited for chats and discussions about books and national affairs of note. At one time he did say that the reason for his separation from his wife and daughter "was my fault, James, just my fault, that is all."
He let it go at that.

During his life in Lowell he made few friends, but many citizens knew him to be honest, reliable, plain speaking at all times and a man of excellent personal habits. He was always eager to help anybody, look a

NEW CLUES IN MYSTERY

Mother of Missing Priest Gets Letter—Tells of Another Clergyman Being Murdered

VIRGEN, Ill., March 15.—(By the Associated Press.) Several developments in the case of Rev. John A.
Vranlak, pastor of the Sacred Heart church, who disappeared under mysterious circumstances a week and a half ago, were announced today by George Miller, deputy sheriff.

Mrs. Johanna Vranlak, mother of the missing priest, said she had received a letter from a woman at Indianapolis, Ind., who declared that her brother, the Rev. Father Arthur B.
Belknap, a priest of Lead, S. D., had been murdered in that city by a man whose description she supplied. The letter was turned over to the authorities.

Miller declared the description of the alleged murderer of Father Belknap corresponds with the description of a man under surveillance in a small town near here. Efforts are being made to ascertain whether this man was away from home since the disappearance of Father Vranlak, it was stated.

Atolph Vranlak, of Chicago, brother of the missing priest, asserted he received a telephone call from a man whose name was not learned, who said that the clergyman was seen in company with two men "who appeared to be leading him" in Collinsville, Ill., near St. Louis, several nights ago.

PLAN RECEPTION FOR MISCHA ELMAN

The coming of Mischa Elman, celebrated Russian violinist, who is to appear Friday evening, March 16, under the management of Albert Edmund Brown in a notable recital at the Memorial Auditorium, has created widespread interest in musical and social circles of Lowell. Numerous friends and enthusiastic admirers of the noted violinist, are planning to tend the artist a reception following his appearance at the Auditorium
the same evening.

Members of Lowell lodge, No. 514, Independent Order of the B'nai B'rith, arranged to entertain the artist at Paco's restaurant at 10.30 p. m., where numerous well known Lowell citizens will gather to pay their respects to the guest and extend genuine hospitality of the true Lowell brand. Leading in the reception plan arrangements are President Benjamin S. Penzance, Vice-President William Cantor, Treasurer
Moses Marks, Recording Secretary Maurice Marofsky and other active members of the B'nai B'rith.

Vice-President Cantor is in charge of the reception arrangements. Among those invited to be present at the dinner and social hour are Congregation men John Jacob Rogers, Headmaster Henry H. Harris of the Lowell high school and entertainers from a local theatre. At this is Elman's first appearance in Lowell, his admirers are planning to make it memorable.

During his life in Lowell he made
few friends, but many citizens knew
him to be honest, reliable, plain speak-

WORCESTER'S MAYOR TO BE A SPEAKER

The South End club will hold an "Irish Night" at its club rooms in Central street on Friday, Mar. 16, at 8 p.
m. An entertainment and buffet luncheon has been arranged by the commit-delight in school and association athletics of all kinds, and often told his friends of stories of the days he spent with Barnum & Bailey's circus in the middle west, when he secured an engagement as an acrobat with the show.

He was with several circuses in his lifetime, always carrying a trunk filled with best literature to while away his hours of rest and as a source of recreation.

The man also was adept at telephony and constructing wire connections, and known as a repair man with excellent records behind him in many different cities.

The estate left by David Wren is not large, there are his books and what not to award to survivors, but Atty. Carmichael hopes to hear from the missing wife or her daughter in order that he may turn over to them the belongings of the man who wandered over the face of the earth only to wind up in a little bookshop on a Lowell byway and pass out with nothing but kindness in his heart, a friendliness that was warm and sincere and a glowing hope in the future that left before all mankind when their suns set at the Twilight Hour.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

LOWELL FIRMS PURCHASE STAMPS IN BOSTON

There are still quite a few persons and firms in this city who send to Boston and other cities for their supplies of stamps and the postmaster wonders if these people realize they are hurting every person in the city who receives mail and also are cripling their own service by such purchases.

Each postoffice is allotted its number of clerks and carriers by the total amount of business that it does each year, and as this amount gets larger the personnel of the department is increased. If by any chance the amount should be less one year than the year before, then the personnel is reduced.

The Lowell postoffice does a business of approximately $300,000 gross a year, and if everyone who uses stamps buys them here this amount would likely increase by many thousand dollars.

The same applies to the Middlesex street station. Every $25,000 worth of business done there in a year means one clerk, and if the total business of the station can be increased this much, the result is that another clerk will be detailed to aid in the handling of mail matter there.

None of the defendants was called to testify and although a finding of guilt was made, the complainant was cautioned to refrain from casting aspersions on her daughters and to keep away from their home.

Plans are in the making for the annual "Lowell Day" scholastic composition contest, a regular feature each year now, with the strong backing of the Lowell chamber of commerce cooperating with the Lowell school committee. May 1 is the "Day," and it will be featured by the writing of compositions on a subject to be announced.
Last year there was a first prize, gold medal, and class awards for the winners of best compositions on a subject covering the development of the cotton industry in Lowell. This season, after the 1922 subject is announced, prizes will be distributed, probably, in similar fashion as last year, with a first gold medal, and then medals to winners in each class.

Full announcements covering the competition, which is always an attractive "feature" of competitive competitions in local schools, will be made shortly.
